Profits Levy Backers Fight Uphill Battle

GOP Plans Drastic Moves As Rep. Reed Defies Eisenhower

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration turned today to rare, last-ditch tactics in a climactic battle to extend the excess profits tax—but even then met little success.

The fight, a major test for the President, boiled to almost unprecedented intensity with these developments:

Rep. Reed of New York, Republican chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, openly defied the administration with the flat statement he would never convene his group for a vote on the issue. He called the tax "immoral."

Drastic Move Planned

Almost at the same time, House Speaker Martin (R-Mass) announced after a White House conference the administration would resort to "every possible means" to bypass Reed or his committee—a drastic move.

The first step, Martin said, would be to seek a petition by a majority of the 25-man committee to force a meeting.

But within a few hours, one of the highest Republican leaders conceded the petition move was doomed. A poll showed seven Republicans on the committee refusing to take a stand now.

Democrats said they expected most of their 10 members to oppose the petition.

Demo Support Needed

As an even more drastic maneuver, Martin said that if the petition failed House leaders would ask the rules committee to bring a tax extension bill to the floor—circumventing the Ways and Means Committee completely.

But Democrats, on whom Republicans must count for heavy support on this issue, promptly raised a threat to that procedure, too.

Rep. McCormack (Mass), assistant Democratic leader, said he believed his party would strongly oppose any effort to bypass any congressional committee and its traditional prerogatives. Such a move, he said, "would have a shattering effect upon orderly procedure of the House and the rules of the House."

Ike's Nomination Of Lyon Dies In Storm Of Senate Criticism

Choice For Mine Bureau Director Asks Withdrawal

Safety Law 'Phony,' Engineer Declares

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—President Eisenhower's nomination of Tom Lyon to head the U. S. Bureau of mines died a sudden death today in a storm of senatorial criticism.

Faced with mounting opposition due to the $5,000 pension he draws from Anaconda Copper Mining Company and his criticism of the federal mine safety law, the 65-year-old engineer bowed out by asking that his nomination be withdrawn from the Senate.

At the White House, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said he assumed the President would comply, since "Mr. Lyon requested it himself." Secretary of Interior Douglas McKay also asked withdrawal of the nomination.

Safety Law Called "Phony"

Lyon aimed a fresh blast at the federal coal mine safety law this afternoon, calling it a "phony."

Greeting newsmen at his office, Lyon commented wryly:

"There isn't much to say. The story is over."

That was his summary of events that began yesterday when the Senate Interior Committee called him for the usual routine questions to examine his qualifications for office. Until Lyon spoke up with a frankness that startled senators, there had been little sign of any opposition except from John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers.

When the storm broke today, Lyon handed newsmen a statement saying he had asked that his name be withdrawn.

Parting Shot At Lewis

As for the mine safety act, Lyon declared it is "a phony and everyone connected with its administration, including the United Mine Workers Union, knows it is administratively impossible."

Lyon thus indirectly took a parting shot at UMW Chief Lewis, who has bitterly denounced Lyon as unfit to supervise the safety of the nation's mine workers.

Lyon said in his statement that the law, as amended by Congress last year, requires the Bureau of Mines to "police" coal mines—shutting them down if they fail to meet U. S. safety standards—thereby "putting responsibility for all accidents upon the Bureau of Mines."

But he contended that with only 270 bureau inspectors to inspect the 9,000 U. S. coal mines, it is impossible to administer the law properly.

Soviets Grant East German Regime 'Stay'

Grotewohl, Allowed Another Chance, Acts To Placate Workers

BERLIN, June 24 (AP)—The Russians gave their puppet East German government a chance to save its neck and stay in office today—but kept their guns pointed against any new uprising by German workers.

Prime Minister Otto Grotewohl was allowed to announce that his government will not resign, and thus yield to the "provocateurs" of last week's bloody revolt. Instead it will stay in office and carry out its "duty" of correcting its "mistakes."

He made a bid to placate the rioting workers by promising to free many of the thousands arrested, increase social benefits and lighten the rearmament burden. The regime turned back to private hands 40 nationalized factories and embarked on a "new course" of allowing "public discussion" in the factories of workers' complaints.

Double Trade Credits

At the same time, West Germany and the Soviet zone agreed to double their trade credits in order that the food-short East zone might get 10 million marks ($2,380,000) of food and the same amount of steel. Before the riots the East zone had reached the limit of 20 million marks indebtedness under a previous trade agreement, and Western food shipments had been halted.

East Germany now undertakes to make good the shortage by supplying the West with oil. West Germany's trade is under Allied High Commission supervision which prohibits shipments of strategic goods to the East.

Allies Reject Red Charge

But Russian troops and tanks still held 18 million sullen German people at bay under martial law.

A Communist party conference in Leipzig admitted that a "high percentage" of the two million members of the blue-shirted Free German Youth (FDJ) took part in the uprising.

The three Western Allies made a second demand on the Soviets to lift martial law and comply with Four-Power agreements for free traffic circulation in Berlin.

The Allies rejected in strong words the Soviet charge that the uprising which cost hundreds of lives was incited by agents from the West.

DOES HER PART—Mary Ruth Thomas, 10, Long Beach, Calif., hadn't heard from her half-brother, Lloyd Thomas, 24, who is in the Army in Korea, so she telephoned President Eisenhower. Aides wouldn't let her talk to the President and suggested she send a telegram, which she did. After several days she hasn't received an answer. Both call and wire were charged to mommy's bill. Payments will be made, a week at a time, from Mary Ruth's allowance. (AP Wirephoto)

Ike Emissary Hopeful As He Flies To Seoul

Meeting May Open New Channels, ROK President Declares

SEOUL, Thursday, June 25 (AP)—Strong-willed Syngman Rhee today left the door ajar for compromise as President Eisenhower's special envoy hurried here to face the balky South Korean President and try to win him over to a truce.

But Rhee, just before his scheduled meeting with U. S. Assistant Secretary of State Walter S. Robertson on this third anniversary of the Korean War, showed by new word and action his government still was prepared to fight on alone.

Rhee said so in a letter to Gen. Mark Clark, U. N. Far East commander, and in an interview.

He also formed a "war Cabinet" to help him work out plans should the U. N. Command sign a truce with the Communists over South Korea's protest.

ROKs Plan Demonstration

Robertson was flying into Korea today as 1,000,000 or more South Koreans were grabbing banners for huge anti-truce demonstrations in Seoul and other principal cities.

Rhee's hint at a possible compromise was given in a radio interview Wednesday.

"Mr. Robertson's coming may open new channels so settlement of this peace talk may be made more agreeable to us and perhaps more honorable to the United States," Rhee said.

In Tokyo, before flying to Seoul, Robertson said "I am still hopeful that I will be able to remove all misunderstandings and differences that stand in the way of peace."

Rhee disclosed Wednesday the contents of a letter he had written Clark saying he would pull out his South Korean troops from Clark's command rather than agree to a truce on present terms. But he agreed to "let you know as a friend to a friend when I have decided to withdraw our forces."

Release Of POWs Defended

Rhee's letter made these main points:

1. His order releasing more than 27,000 anti-Red Korean prisoners—upsetting a truce just when it was about to be signed—"was the only way to avoid the danger of a clash between the Koreans and the foreign pro-Communist troops that you propose to bring in."

2. Statesmen of the United Nations "have joined hands with the Communists, our common enemy, accepted the terms of armistice insisted on by the enemy and urged us to accept them. . . Korea cannot survive so long as the Chinese Red Army of a million or more are allowed to remain in Korea."

3. If unification of Korea "cannot be accomplished in the battlefield now when we are winning it can never be accomplished at a conference."

Battlefront Quiet As Korean War Enters 4th Year

SEOUL, Thursday, June 25 (AP)—The fourth year of bloodshed and misery in the Korean War was ushered in quietly today. Hardly a shot was fired where thousands of men struggled the day before.

Only a few skirmishes broke the silence of the early morning hours on the Central Front, where 2,200 Chinese Reds fell Wednesday in a futile, 6,000-man onslaught against U. S. and South Korean infantry.

It was equally quiet elsewhere along the 155-mile front, which twists through hills and valleys only a few miles from where war broke out with the North Korean Communist invasion three years ago.

The third year of war had ended Wednesday on a furious note, not only on the ground but in the air.

U. S. Sabre jets shot down six MIGs and damaged one high in Northwest Korea, bringing their month's total to 49. This is 14 shy of the record of 63 set last September.

The Communists began the day by throwing nearly a whole division into the Iron Triangle area under cover of a dense fog.

They battled into South Korean trenches on Sniper Ridge and Triangle Hill just north of Kumhwa, once a town but now reduced to grass-grown rubble by three years of war.

The South Koreans rushed up reinforcements and threw back the Chinese, who by Army estimates lost 1,445 men killed or wounded.

Six miles to the west, U. S. 3rd Division troops battled from midnight to dawn on Boomerang Hill. The Reds finally retreated with 760 casualties.

That has been the history of most of the war on this unhappy peninsula—bitter fighting, many casualties, and little change in the lines.

Rhee, Thousands Of South Koreans Shout Defiance

SEOUL, Thursday, June 25 (AP)—"We want to fight until death," President Syngman Rhee shouted today to screaming hundreds of thousands demonstrating against a truce on this third anniversary of the Korean War.

Mighty Show Of Defiance

A truce now might doom South Korea to "the same disaster suffered by the peoples of Czechoslovakia, Poland and China," Rhee told the flag-waving multitudes.

In cities throughout South Korea, huge throngs expected to total more than a million, jammed the streets in response to a government call for a mighty show of defiance of any truce that would leave the country divided.

School children began marching in Seoul as early as 7 a.m. (5 p.m. Wednesday EST)

Hundreds of rifle-carrying Korean policemen guarded the capitol grounds in the heaviest precaution yet seen here against possible assassination attempts or disorder.

Machine Guns At Capitol

Machine guns were mounted on the capitol itself.

Nearly every marcher carried a small paper flag of the Republic of Korea, and the national flag blossomed from virtually every home and office.

The government, in orders for the demonstrations, called it "Northward Advance - Unification Day," an expression of South Korean demands for a military drive north, instead of a peace conference, to unify the country.

House Committee Will Investigate Gasoline Prices

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—The House Commerce Committee stepped in today to investigate gasoline prices which in many areas have been boosted twice in two weeks.

Chairman Wolverton (R-NJ) said hearings will begin July 1 to determine "just what the situation may be and to attempt to develop the facts or conditions with reference to such price increases."

Many of the major oil companies increased their prices about two weeks ago, blaming higher costs of manufacturing and other business expenses. This was followed this week with another boost, designed to meet an increase in crude oil prices in Southwestern producing areas. The Eastern Seaboard has been especially affected.

Strauss Lined Up As Head Of AEC

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—Lewis L. Strauss, an admiral, financier and longtime student of nuclear physics, today was lined up as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

President Eisenhower asked the Senate to confirm him for a five-year term on the commission, ending in June, 1958. James C. Hagerty, the President's press secretary, said Eisenhower would designate Strauss to succeed to the chairmanship when Gordon Dean retires from the post next Monday.

A New Yorker, Strauss served as a member of the AEC from its inception in 1946 until April, 1950, when he returned to private business. He is 57 and an admiral in the U. S. Naval Reserve.

Air Force Voids Kaiser-Frazer Plane Contracts

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—The Air Force, in a surprise move, today cancelled 200 million dollars worth of aircraft contracts with the Henry J. Kaiser interests, target of hot criticism on Capitol Hill.

One of the contracts called for the production of 159 "Flying Boxcar" C119's which Sen. Bridges (R-NH) charges are costing the government five times as much as the same type of aircraft produced by the Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corp. at Hagerstown, Md.

The cancellation blow fell on Kaiser and his son, Edgar, as they were defending their production record before a Senate armed services subcommittee.

Willow Run "Still Asset"

The senior Kaiser held a news conference later to announce that, as chairman of the board of the Kaiser Motor Corp., he wants to "relinquish" anything the government does not want him to do.

"We have great work to do in our peacetime industrial enterprises, and we shall continue diligently to make all possible contribution," Kaiser said in a statement.

He added that the big Willow Run, Mich., plant, where the aircraft were being produced, "stands as a great living symbol to volume mass production, and it is still an asset to this nation."

"It would be most unfair to the thousands who work in the Willow Run plant, and who have given much of themselves, for me not to emphasize at this point my heartfelt appreciation for their ceaseless efforts . . .," Kaiser said.

Some 12,500 workers are employed at Willow Run.

CIO-UAW Protests

The CIO-United Auto Workers union immediately telegraphed Air Force Secretary Talbott protesting the cancellation and demanding that it be rescinded.

Termination of the contracts, the Air Force said, was a decision taken "completely independently" of the Senate hearings. A spokesman said the Kaisers would be permitted to complete planes now in the final assembly stages.

At Willow Run it was reported this would involve several planes and several million dollars worth of work.

Kaiser and his son said at the Washington news conference that they will go ahead with plans to make the best possible use of the Willow Run plant.

Sen. Beall (R-Md) introduced a statement at the hearing which he said was intended to correct testimony implying that he was acting in behalf of Fairchild in suggesting to the Air Force that it cancel the Kaisers' C119 contract.

He said he acted without the knowledge of Fairchild.

"Little 3" Proclamation

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia June 24 (AP)—The Balkan "Little Three" alliance—Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia—proclaimed anew today its determination to strengthen its defenses for preservation of peace.

President To Sign Pakistan Wheat Measure Today

WASHINGTON, June 24 (INS)—Congress completed action on a bill giving famine-stricken Pakistan one million tons of U. S. wheat and President Eisenhower will sign the measure into law Thursday.

Senate passage on a voice vote sped the measure to the White House. The formal signing is scheduled for 2:30 p. m., EDT, Thursday.

The House approved the legislation Tuesday 310 to 75 after defeating a proposal by Democrats on the House Agriculture Committee that Pakistan pay the costs for shipping the grain.

Sisters Become Mothers Within 3½-Hour Period

PRINCE FREDERICK, Md., June 24 (AP)—Three sisters all had babies within a 3½-hour period at Calvert County Hospital Monday evening.

The mothers are Thelma Ford, Lillian Adams and Helen Boone, who live at Dunkirk. They are granddaughters of the late James Wilson, widely known Negro political figure in the county.

Russia Floats New Loan

LONDON, June 24 (AP) — The Soviet Union announced today the floating of a new state loan of 15 billion rubles for "further growth of the Soviet economy." It is only half of last year's total.

The Soviet valuation of the ruble, an arbitrary one which does not reflect its true worth, is four to the dollar, which would make the loan worth about $3,750,000,000.

Senate Oks Plan To Aid Education

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—The Senate voted today to use federal revenues from off-shore mineral resources for federal aid to education.

By a 45 to 37 roll call vote, it adopted the aid to education proposal of Sen. Hill (D-Ala) and 34 other senators as an amendment to legislation establishing procedures for federal leasing of the submerged areas on the continental shelf beyond state boundaries.

The Hill proposal would earmark revenues from leases, bonuses and royalties for national defense during the present emergency and for not to exceed three years. After that, the money would be set aside for grants to the states for schools.

Eleven Republicans joined 34 Democrats in voting for the amendment. Thirty Republicans and seven Democrats voted against it.

Churchill Voices Hope For German Elections

LONDON, Thursday, June 26 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill declared today the recent uprising in East Germany "demonstrated the urgent necessity" of reuniting Germany through free elections.

Churchill, taking the initiative to exploit the unrest the riots of June 17 disclosed, wrote Chancellor Konroad Adenauer of the Bonn Republic he hoped the Russians might now "see their way" to negotiate on unifying Germany under terms laid down by the Western Powers.

Truman Returns To Senate, Saying Peace One Ambition

WASHINGTON, June 24 (INS)—Harry S. Truman returned to the floor of the Senate today, stood at the seat he occupied during the "happiest years" of his life, and declared that world peace has always been his one ambition.

Capitol aides said it was unprecedented for an ex-president to address the Senate as a private citizen, but that did not deter the former senator from Missouri and "Man from Independence."

The upper chamber recessed to give Mr. Truman the courtesy of permitting him to speak to the Senate. Under Senate rules ex-presidents and former senators have the "privilege of the floor" but cannot address the chamber while it is in session.

Truman, who spent 10 years as a senator before becoming vice president and then president in 1945, was greeted by a standing ovation when he entered the chamber.

There was another ovation when he arose to speak. He told the Senate that "this body has great responsibilities" and that senators "do not need to be told that by a former senator."

There was a third ovation when the 69-year-old ex-president left the Senate chamber to resume his tour of Washington—his first visit to the capital since it was taken over by the Republicans on Jan. 20.

Forsythe Is Elected Kiwanis President

NEW YORK, June 24 (INS) — Kiwanis International today backed up the United Nations' truce policy in Korea, took a firm stand against communism and elected a new president at its 38th annual convention.

Action By Reserve Board Ups Banks' Lending Power

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board today reduced the amount of funds it requires member banks to hold in reserve. The action increased the lending power of the nation's commercial banks by up to five and three-quarters billion dollars.

The Federal Reserve Board made the move to ease the tight money situation which in recent months has caused interest rates to climb to the highest level in two decades.

The action will make it easier for the Treasury to borrow the nine to 12 billion dollars new money it estimates it will need in the next few months, and might prevent further large interest rate hikes as the Treasury, industry and individuals make unprecedentedly large demands for credit.

The board dropped its reserve requirements for country banks, effective July 1, from 14 per cent to 13 per cent of their net demand deposits. Effective July 9, the reserve requirement for reserve city banks will be dropped from 20 to 19 per cent and for central reserve city banks from 24 to 22 per cent.

Overall, the action did not make a very big change in the reserve requirements, which now average about 20 per cent.

But the reserve board announcement said the small percentage decrease in reserve requirements would release an estimated $1,156,000,000 of reserves.

RIAS Director Is Former Red

BERLIN, June 24 (AP)—A German directing U. S. State Department broadcasts into East Germany admitted today that he used to be a Communist, but said that made him a better fighter against communism now.

Eberhard Schutz, program director of RIAS, the American radio in Berlin, said "I suppose I must be the one" Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis) was aiming at when he charged recently that there were Communists on RIAS' payroll.

Schutz also disclosed there were two Germans on the staff who were nominal members of East Germany's Socialist Unity (Communist) party before they fled to West Berlin.

"For the sake of RIAS and its valuable work, I think we should come out openly and give the public all these facts before they become distorted in public controversy," Schutz said.

McCarthy has said he intends to call RIAS' deputy director, Gordon A. Ewing of New York City, as a witness before his Senate committee.

Red Lawyer Probe?

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) said today he is discussing with some American Bar Association leaders whether there is need of an investigation of "Communist lawyers practicing before government agencies and in the federal courts."

But Russian troops and tanks still held 18 million sullen German people at bay under martial law.

A Communist party conference in Leipzig admitted that a "high percentage" of the two million members of the blue-shirted Free German Youth (FDJ) took part in the uprising.

The three Western Allies made a second demand on the Soviets to lift martial law and comply with Four-Power agreements for free traffic circulation in Berlin.

The Allies rejected in strong words the Soviet charge that the uprising which cost hundreds of lives was incited by agents from the West.

DOES HER PART—Mary Ruth Thomas, 10, Long Beach, Calif., hadn't heard from her half-brother, Lloyd Thomas, 24, who is in the Army in Korea, so she telephoned President Eisenhower. Aides wouldn't let her talk to the President and suggested she send a telegram, which she did. After several days she hasn't received an answer. Both call and wire were charged to mommy's bill. Payments will be made, a week at a time, from Mary Ruth's allowance. (AP Wirephoto)

Ike Emissary Hopeful As He Flies To Seoul

Meeting May Open New Channels, ROK President Declares

SEOUL, Thursday, June 25 (AP)—Strong-willed Syngman Rhee today left the door ajar for compromise as President Eisenhower's special envoy hurried here to face the balky South Korean President and try to win him over to a truce.

But Rhee, just before his scheduled meeting with U. S. Assistant Secretary of State Walter S. Robertson on this third anniversary of the Korean War, showed by new word and action his government still was prepared to fight on alone.

Rhee said so in a letter to Gen. Mark Clark, U. N. Far East commander, and in an interview.

He also formed a "war Cabinet" to help him work out plans should the U. N. Command sign a truce with the Communists over South Korea's protest.

ROKs Plan Demonstration

Robertson was flying into Korea today as 1,000,000 or more South Koreans were grabbing banners for huge anti-truce demonstrations in Seoul and other principal cities.

Rhee's hint at a possible compromise was given in a radio interview Wednesday.

"Mr. Robertson's coming may open new channels so settlement of this peace talk may be made more agreeable to us and perhaps more honorable to the United States," Rhee said.

In Tokyo, before flying to Seoul, Robertson said "I am still hopeful that I will be able to remove all misunderstandings and differences that stand in the way of peace."

Rhee disclosed Wednesday the contents of a letter he had written Clark saying he would pull out his South Korean troops from Clark's command rather than agree to a truce on present terms. But he agreed to "let you know as a friend to a friend when I have decided to withdraw our forces."

Release Of POWs Defended

Rhee's letter made these main points:

1. His order releasing more than 27,000 anti-Red Korean prisoners—upsetting a truce just when it was about to be signed—"was the only way to avoid the danger of a clash between the Koreans and the foreign pro-Communist troops that you propose to bring in."

2. Statesmen of the United Nations "have joined hands with the Communists, our common enemy, accepted the terms of armistice insisted on by the enemy and urged us to accept them. . . Korea cannot survive so long as the Chinese Red Army of a million or more are allowed to remain in Korea."

3. If unification of Korea "cannot be accomplished in the battlefield now when we are winning it can never be accomplished at a conference."

Battlefront Quiet As Korean War Enters 4th Year

SEOUL, Thursday, June 25 (AP)—The fourth year of bloodshed and misery in the Korean War was ushered in quietly today. Hardly a shot was fired where thousands of men struggled the day before.

Only a few skirmishes broke the silence of the early morning hours on the Central Front, where 2,200 Chinese Reds fell Wednesday in a futile, 6,000-man onslaught against U. S. and South Korean infantry.

It was equally quiet elsewhere along the 155-mile front, which twists through hills and valleys only a few miles from where war broke out with the North Korean Communist invasion three years ago.

The third year of war had ended Wednesday on a furious note, not only on the ground but in the air.

U. S. Sabre jets shot down six MIGs and damaged one high in Northwest Korea, bringing their month's total to 49. This is 14 shy of the record of 63 set last September.

The Communists began the day by throwing nearly a whole division into the Iron Triangle area under cover of a dense fog.

They battled into South Korean trenches on Sniper Ridge and Triangle Hill just north of Kumhwa, once a town but now reduced to grass-grown rubble by three years of war.

The South Koreans rushed up reinforcements and threw back the Chinese, who by Army estimates lost 1,445 men killed or wounded.

Six miles to the west, U. S. 3rd Division troops battled from midnight to dawn on Boomerang Hill. The Reds finally retreated with 760 casualties.

That has been the history of most of the war on this unhappy peninsula—bitter fighting, many casualties, and little change in the lines.

Rhee, Thousands Of South Koreans Shout Defiance

SEOUL, Thursday, June 25 (AP)—"We want to fight until death," President Syngman Rhee shouted today to screaming hundreds of thousands demonstrating against a truce on this third anniversary of the Korean War.

Mighty Show Of Defiance

A truce now might doom South Korea to "the same disaster suffered by the peoples of Czechoslovakia, Poland and China," Rhee told the flag-waving multitudes.

In cities throughout South Korea, huge throngs expected to total more than a million, jammed the streets in response to a government call for a mighty show of defiance of any truce that would leave the country divided.

School children began marching in Seoul as early as 7 a.m. (5 p.m. Wednesday EST)

Hundreds of rifle-carrying Korean policemen guarded the capitol grounds in the heaviest precaution yet seen here against possible assassination attempts or disorder.

Machine Guns At Capitol

Machine guns were mounted on the capitol itself.

Nearly every marcher carried a small paper flag of the Republic of Korea, and the national flag blossomed from virtually every home and office.

The government, in orders for the demonstrations, called it "Northward Advance - Unification Day," an expression of South Korean demands for a military drive north, instead of a peace conference, to unify the country.

House Committee Will Investigate Gasoline Prices

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—The House Commerce Committee stepped in today to investigate gasoline prices which in many areas have been boosted twice in two weeks.

Chairman Wolverton (R-NJ) said hearings will begin July 1 to determine "just what the situation may be and to attempt to develop the facts or conditions with reference to such price increases."

Many of the major oil companies increased their prices about two weeks ago, blaming higher costs of manufacturing and other business expenses. This was followed this week with another boost, designed to meet an increase in crude oil prices in Southwestern producing areas. The Eastern Seaboard has been especially affected.

Strauss Lined Up As Head Of AEC

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—Lewis L. Strauss, an admiral, financier and longtime student of nuclear physics, today was lined up as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

President Eisenhower asked the Senate to confirm him for a five-year term on the commission, ending in June, 1958. James C. Hagerty, the President's press secretary, said Eisenhower would designate Strauss to succeed to the chairmanship when Gordon Dean retires from the post next Monday.

A New Yorker, Strauss served as a member of the AEC from its inception in 1946 until April, 1950, when he returned to private business. He is 57 and an admiral in the U. S. Naval Reserve.

Air Force Voids Kaiser-Frazer Plane Contracts

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—The Air Force, in a surprise move, today cancelled 200 million dollars worth of aircraft contracts with the Henry J. Kaiser interests, target of hot criticism on Capitol Hill.

One of the contracts called for the production of 159 "Flying Boxcar" C119's which Sen. Bridges (R-NH) charges are costing the government five times as much as the same type of aircraft produced by the Fairchild Engine and Airplane Corp. at Hagerstown, Md.

The cancellation blow fell on Kaiser and his son, Edgar, as they were defending their production record before a Senate armed services subcommittee.

Willow Run "Still Asset"

The senior Kaiser held a news conference later to announce that, as chairman of the board of the Kaiser Motor Corp., he wants to "relinquish" anything the government does not want him to do.

"We have great work to do in our peacetime industrial enterprises, and we shall continue diligently to make all possible contribution," Kaiser said in a statement.

He added that the big Willow Run, Mich., plant, where the aircraft were being produced, "stands as a great living symbol to volume mass production, and it is still an asset to this nation."

"It would be most unfair to the thousands who work in the Willow Run plant, and who have given much of themselves, for me not to emphasize at this point my heartfelt appreciation for their ceaseless efforts . . .," Kaiser said.

Some 12,500 workers are employed at Willow Run.

CIO-UAW Protests

The CIO-United Auto Workers union immediately telegraphed Air Force Secretary Talbott protesting the cancellation and demanding that it be rescinded.

Termination of the contracts, the Air Force said, was a decision taken "completely independently" of the Senate hearings. A spokesman said the Kaisers would be permitted to complete planes now in the final assembly stages.

At Willow Run it was reported this would involve several planes and several million dollars worth of work.

Kaiser and his son said at the Washington news conference that they will go ahead with plans to make the best possible use of the Willow Run plant.

Sen. Beall (R-Md) introduced a statement at the hearing which he said was intended to correct testimony implying that he was acting in behalf of Fairchild in suggesting to the Air Force that it cancel the Kaisers' C119 contract.

He said he acted without the knowledge of Fairchild.

"Little 3" Proclamation

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia June 24 (AP)—The Balkan "Little Three" alliance—Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia—proclaimed anew today its determination to strengthen its defenses for preservation of peace.

President To Sign Pakistan Wheat Measure Today

WASHINGTON, June 24 (INS)—Congress completed action on a bill giving famine-stricken Pakistan one million tons of U. S. wheat and President Eisenhower will sign the measure into law Thursday.

Senate passage on a voice vote sped the measure to the White House. The formal signing is scheduled for 2:30 p. m., EDT, Thursday.

The House approved the legislation Tuesday 310 to 75 after defeating a proposal by Democrats on the House Agriculture Committee that Pakistan pay the costs for shipping the grain.

Sisters Become Mothers Within 3½-Hour Period

PRINCE FREDERICK, Md., June 24 (AP)—Three sisters all had babies within a 3½-hour period at Calvert County Hospital Monday evening.

The mothers are Thelma Ford, Lillian Adams and Helen Boone, who live at Dunkirk. They are granddaughters of the late James Wilson, widely known Negro political figure in the county.

Russia Floats New Loan

LONDON, June 24 (AP) — The Soviet Union announced today the floating of a new state loan of 15 billion rubles for "further growth of the Soviet economy." It is only half of last year's total.

The Soviet valuation of the ruble, an arbitrary one which does not reflect its true worth, is four to the dollar, which would make the loan worth about $3,750,000,000.

Senate Oks Plan To Aid Education

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—The Senate voted today to use federal revenues from off-shore mineral resources for federal aid to education.

By a 45 to 37 roll call vote, it adopted the aid to education proposal of Sen. Hill (D-Ala) and 34 other senators as an amendment to legislation establishing procedures for federal leasing of the submerged areas on the continental shelf beyond state boundaries.

The Hill proposal would earmark revenues from leases, bonuses and royalties for national defense during the present emergency and for not to exceed three years. After that, the money would be set aside for grants to the states for schools.

Eleven Republicans joined 34 Democrats in voting for the amendment. Thirty Republicans and seven Democrats voted against it.

Churchill Voices Hope For German Elections

LONDON, Thursday, June 26 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill declared today the recent uprising in East Germany "demonstrated the urgent necessity" of reuniting Germany through free elections.

Churchill, taking the initiative to exploit the unrest the riots of June 17 disclosed, wrote Chancellor Konroad Adenauer of the Bonn Republic he hoped the Russians might now "see their way" to negotiate on unifying Germany under terms laid down by the Western Powers.

Truman Returns To Senate, Saying Peace One Ambition

WASHINGTON, June 24 (INS)—Harry S. Truman returned to the floor of the Senate today, stood at the seat he occupied during the "happiest years" of his life, and declared that world peace has always been his one ambition.

Capitol aides said it was unprecedented for an ex-president to address the Senate as a private citizen, but that did not deter the former senator from Missouri and "Man from Independence."

The upper chamber recessed to give Mr. Truman the courtesy of permitting him to speak to the Senate. Under Senate rules ex-presidents and former senators have the "privilege of the floor" but cannot address the chamber while it is in session.

Truman, who spent 10 years as a senator before becoming vice president and then president in 1945, was greeted by a standing ovation when he entered the chamber.

There was another ovation when he arose to speak. He told the Senate that "this body has great responsibilities" and that senators "do not need to be told that by a former senator."

There was a third ovation when the 69-year-old ex-president left the Senate chamber to resume his tour of Washington—his first visit to the capital since it was taken over by the Republicans on Jan. 20.

Forsythe Is Elected Kiwanis President

NEW YORK, June 24 (INS) — Kiwanis International today backed up the United Nations' truce policy in Korea, took a firm stand against communism and elected a new president at its 38th annual convention.

Action By Reserve Board Ups Banks' Lending Power

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board today reduced the amount of funds it requires member banks to hold in reserve. The action increased the lending power of the nation's commercial banks by up to five and three-quarters billion dollars.

The Federal Reserve Board made the move to ease the tight money situation which in recent months has caused interest rates to climb to the highest level in two decades.

The action will make it easier for the Treasury to borrow the nine to 12 billion dollars new money it estimates it will need in the next few months, and might prevent further large interest rate hikes as the Treasury, industry and individuals make unprecedentedly large demands for credit.

The board dropped its reserve requirements for country banks, effective July 1, from 14 per cent to 13 per cent of their net demand deposits. Effective July 9, the reserve requirement for reserve city banks will be dropped from 20 to 19 per cent and for central reserve city banks from 24 to 22 per cent.

Overall, the action did not make a very big change in the reserve requirements, which now average about 20 per cent.

But the reserve board announcement said the small percentage decrease in reserve requirements would release an estimated $1,156,000,000 of reserves.

RIAS Director Is Former Red

BERLIN, June 24 (AP)—A German directing U. S. State Department broadcasts into East Germany admitted today that he used to be a Communist, but said that made him a better fighter against communism now.

Eberhard Schutz, program director of RIAS, the American radio in Berlin, said "I suppose I must be the one" Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis) was aiming at when he charged recently that there were Communists on RIAS' payroll.

Schutz also disclosed there were two Germans on the staff who were nominal members of East Germany's Socialist Unity (Communist) party before they fled to West Berlin.

"For the sake of RIAS and its valuable work, I think we should come out openly and give the public all these facts before they become distorted in public controversy," Schutz said.

McCarthy has said he intends to call RIAS' deputy director, Gordon A. Ewing of New York City, as a witness before his Senate committee.

Red Lawyer Probe?

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) said today he is discussing with some American Bar Association leaders whether there is need of an investigation of "Communist lawyers practicing before government agencies and in the federal courts."

Way Cleared For Debate By House On Defense Plan

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP) — A House committee today blasted President Eisenhower's plan to revise the military high command as a step toward creating a Prussian-type general staff in this country but cleared it for debate on the House floor.

In a sequence of confusion that puzzled even some of the lawmakers themselves, the House Government Operations Committee:

1. Denounced the President's plan to reorganize the Defense Department—with new powers for the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff—as "another step on the road toward control by the military."

Complicated Snarl-Up

2. Voted 16 to 14 to send the legislation to the House floor, instead of bottling it up in committee.

That was the gist of the committee's action, but the parliamentary snarl-up was so complicated that Chairman Hoffman (R-Mich) later arose in the House and told his colleagues:

"As soon as the legal experts decide what was done in the committee, I will explain to the House about it."

Technically, what goes before the House is a resolution by Rep. Condon (D-Calif) to disapprove Eisenhower's plan.

Full Debate Is Sought

But in voting to send it to the floor, the committee sent along a recommendation that the House reject the Condon resolution.

Committee members explained that the seemingly contradictory action—first denouncing the President's plan and then recommending that the House turn down a resolution to kill it—stemmed from a feeling that the House should have a chance for full debate on Eisenhower's proposal.

Two Women Burned In Freak Accident

EDGEWOOD, Md., June 24 (AP)—Flaming gasoline burned two Edgewood women in a freak accident near here today.

Ann Lou Freeman, 41, was taken to Harford Memorial Hospital at Havre de Grace with first, second and third degree burns over her entire body. Less seriously burned about the legs was Jeannette P. Duncan, 36.

State Troopers L. J. Sullivan and J. G. Blades said their investigation showed this is what happened:

A car belonging to Roy E. Ross of Darlington, Md., stalled on Maryland Route 24 just west of U. S. 40, northeast of Baltimore. Ross got a can of gasoline and was pouring it in the carburetor while a friend stepped on the starter.

The gasoline suddenly caught fire and Ross pitched the can aside as quickly as he could. The flaming can rolled into the two women, who were walking along the highway.

COLLEGE PARK, Md., June 24 (AP) — American Federation of Labor unionists will hold the first labor institute in Maryland here tomorrow.

The institute was arranged by Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland. In a formal welcoming statement he said:

"It is our hope that your deliberations will ultimately develop higher standards for the workers, improved services to the community, and strengthened harmony in the relations between labor and management."

The main theme of the institute will be the responsibility between the workers and the community.

CAMBRIDGE, Md., June 24 (AP)—A 41-year-old fisherman was killed on the Choptank River Bridge today when he ran in front of a truck to retrieve a wind-blown package of fish hooks.

Dead on arrival at Cambridge Hospital was Joseph Sauco of Nassau, N. Y.

Magistrate Gets Tired Of Women Changing Minds

HAGERSTOWN, Md., June 24 (AP) — Magistrate William Kreykenbohm, incensed over the growing number of women who charge men with assault and then fail to show up for the trial, fined two of them $3 and costs today on contempt charges.

Judge Kreykenbohm said too many women here make a practice of swearing out a warrant against husband or boy friend, then either withdraw the warrant after the man spends a night in jail, or fail to appear as a witness at his trial.

Batory Skipper Awaits Decision

LONDON, June 24 (AP) — Jan Cwiklinski, 53-year-old sea captain who abandoned command of the Polish liner Batory was in Brixton Prison tonight awaiting the outcome of his request for political asylum.

The captain on whose ship American Communist Gerhart Eisler stowed away in 1949 left his ship at Newcastle last Saturday. He hid in London until a junior officer had taken charge for the voyage back to Poland, and then emerged and asked police for political asylum in England.

The case of the captain who remained in Britain illegally is taking its usual course, it was said at the Home Office. An inquiry to determine whether his plea for asylum is justified is under way.

CAB Blames Heavy Rain For Plane Crash

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—The plane which crashed in the Choptank River killing four occupants June 12 had gone out of control during a heavy rain, the Civil Aeronautics Board reported today.

The single-engine private plane was piloted by George Ackerman, 23. A CAB spokesman said Ackerman apparently was not able to see the horizon to help him keep the plane level.

Killed with Ackerman were his 23-year-old fiancee, Sara Mitchell, George Yost, 22, and Romaine Sanders, 19, all of the Washington area. They were flying to Salisbury, Md., from Washington.

The CAB report said weather conditions at the time of the crash required flight by instruments but Ackerman did not have an instrument pilot rating. It added instrument ratings are not required of most private pilots.

Psychiatrists Clash Over Sanity Of Strangler, On Verge Of Collapse

LONDON, June 24 (AP) — John Reginald Christie sobbed and twitched on the verge of collapse today as psychiatrists clashed over the sanity of the mousey-looking sex strangler.

The 55-year-old clerk admitted in mumbled tones that there was "no reason, no sense" to his killing of seven women—and maybe more—and said he gave "no thought to it."

Christie broke into fits of weeping as he told his own story before a jury of nine men and three women in old Bailey Court—a story of mass murder that has shocked the nation.

The prosecution has demanded the gallows for the confessed strangler who was described by his own lawyer as "mad—utterly mad."

Christie fidgeted as Dr. John C. Matheson, testifying for the government, told the court, "I think he is sane—at the time he was doing these acts he knew it was against the law."

Dr. J. S. Hobson, a psychiatrist for the defense, contended, that Christie was under-sexed and "fascinated" by dead bodies.

"I think he got some feeling of satisfaction in continuing to live in Rillington Place with dead bodies nearby," said the psychiatrist, explaining that the fascination started when Christie saw his grandfather's body laid out after death.

Christie is being tried specifically for the slaying of his 54-year-old wife, Ethel, whose body he buried under the floor of their dingy flat "because I did not want to be separated from her and lose her—that is why I still had her in the house."

Williamson Miners To Get Big Paychecks

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., June 24 (AP)—More than $2 million dollars will be paid in wages and vacation pay to some 12,000 Williamson miners Friday.

About $900,000 would be for the annual 10-day vacation under terms of the contract with the United Mine Workers Union.

The Williamson field production rose to a new 1953 high last week of 329,950 tons, the third successive weekly increase. The 24 companies in the field worked an average of 4.4 days.

Baltimore Harbor Channel Is Sought

BALTIMORE, June 24 (AP) — The city's port boosters tomorrow will ask the Army engineers for a channel 800 feet wide and 41 feet deep into Baltimore harbor.

Arguments for the harbor improvement are to be presented at a hearing called by Col. Reginald Whitaker, the Army's district engineer.

He asked Baltimore industries, the Steamship Trade Association, and the Association of Maryland Pilots to testify on what is needed.

Magistrate Gets Tired Of Women Changing Minds

HAGERSTOWN, Md., June 24 (AP) — Magistrate William Kreykenbohm, incensed over the growing number of women who charge men with assault and then fail to show up for the trial, fined two of them $3 and costs today on contempt charges.

Judge Kreykenbohm said too many women here make a practice of swearing out a warrant against husband or boy friend, then either withdraw the warrant after the man spends a night in jail, or fail to appear as a witness at his trial.

Batory Skipper Awaits Decision

LONDON, June 24 (AP) — Jan Cwiklinski, 53-year-old sea captain who abandoned command of the Polish liner Batory was in Brixton Prison tonight awaiting the outcome of his request for political asylum.

The captain on whose ship American Communist Gerhart Eisler stowed away in 1949 left his ship at Newcastle last Saturday. He hid in London until a junior officer had taken charge for the voyage back to Poland, and then emerged and asked police for political asylum in England.

The case of the captain who remained in Britain illegally is taking its usual course, it was said at the Home Office. An inquiry to determine whether his plea for asylum is justified is under way.

CAB Blames Heavy Rain For Plane Crash

WASHINGTON, June 24 (AP)—The plane which crashed in the Choptank River killing four occupants June 12 had gone out of control during a heavy rain, the Civil Aeronautics Board reported today.

The single-engine private plane was piloted by George Ackerman, 23. A CAB spokesman said Ackerman apparently was not able to see the horizon to help him keep the plane level.

Killed with Ackerman were his 23-year-old fiancee, Sara Mitchell, George Yost, 22, and Romaine Sanders, 19, all of the Washington area. They were flying to Salisbury, Md., from Washington.

The CAB report said weather conditions at the time of the crash required flight by instruments but Ackerman did not have an instrument pilot rating. It added instrument ratings are not required of most private pilots.

Psychiatrists Clash Over Sanity Of Strangler, On Verge Of Collapse

LONDON, June 24 (AP) — John Reginald Christie sobbed and twitched on the verge of collapse today as psychiatrists clashed over the sanity of the mousey-looking sex strangler.

The 55-year-old clerk admitted in mumbled tones that there was "no reason, no sense" to his killing of seven women—and maybe more—and said he gave "no thought to it."

Christie broke into fits of weeping as he told his own story before a jury of nine men and three women in old Bailey Court—a story of mass murder that has shocked the nation.

The prosecution has demanded the gallows for the confessed strangler who was described by his own lawyer as "mad—utterly mad."

Christie fidgeted as Dr. John C. Matheson, testifying for the government, told the court, "I think he is sane—at the time he was doing these acts he knew it was against the law."

Dr. J. S. Hobson, a psychiatrist for the defense, contended, that Christie was under-sexed and "fascinated" by dead bodies.

"I think he got some feeling of satisfaction in continuing to live in Rillington Place with dead bodies nearby," said the psychiatrist, explaining that the fascination started when Christie saw his grandfather's body laid out after death.

Christie is being tried specifically for the slaying of his 54-year-old wife, Ethel, whose body he buried under the floor of their dingy flat "because I did not want to be separated from her and lose her—that is why I still had her in the house."

Williamson Miners To Get Big Paychecks

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., June 24 (AP)—More than $2 million dollars will be paid in wages and vacation pay to some 12,000 Williamson miners Friday.

About $900,000 would be for the annual 10-day vacation under terms of the contract with the United Mine Workers Union.

The Williamson field production rose to a new 1953 high last week of 329,950 tons, the third successive weekly increase. The 24 companies in the field worked an average of 4.4 days.

Baltimore Harbor Channel Is Sought

BALTIMORE, June 24 (AP) — The city's port boosters tomorrow will ask the Army engineers for a channel 800 feet wide and 41 feet deep into Baltimore harbor.

Arguments for the harbor improvement are to be presented at a hearing called by Col. Reginald Whitaker, the Army's district engineer.

He asked Baltimore industries, the Steamship Trade Association, and the Association of Maryland Pilots to testify on what is needed.

Concrete Work To Begin On Flood Dam

The Potomac River between Riverside Park and Ridgeley is being readied for pouring of two wingwalls for the dam being constructed in the fourth phase of the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control project.

Two coffer dams have been built in and around the banks of the river on the Maryland and West Virginia sides.

One was constructed by driving interlocking steel sheeting into the river bed into connecting cells. These cells were filled with dirt.

Piling Cost $76,000

Erich E. Gronbach, general superintendent for the contractor, the E. H. Albrecht Company of Chicago, said $76,000 worth of steel piling is in the coffer dam on the Maryland side.

The dirt coffer dam on the West Virginia side has been drained dry. The contractor is down to a rock bed on that side.

On the Maryland side, pumps are still taking out sludge and muck from the black colored bottom of the coffer dam.

By next Monday the contractor expects to begin pouring the first of 7,500 cubic yards of concrete that will be required for the dam.

Workmen are putting the finishing touches on the batch plant located just off Water Street at the project site.

All Will Be Weighed

The cement, rock and sand will be carefully weighed at the Albrecht Company's Corriganville quarters and hauled to the batch plant by truck.

The truck, loaded with just enough mix to fill the mixer, will dump the load into a receiving hopper.

This hopper is carried by elevator to the tilting mixer located on beams about 15 feet in the air. The hopper trips by air controls, unloading its contents into the mixer.

A water meter measures the required pounds of water and automatically turns on and off a valve until the proper amount is in the batch.

This batch is mixed from one and one-half minutes to two and one half minutes, according to the job specifications.

Third Phase Planned

Then, also by air controls, the batch is dumped into another bin. A bucket, able to hold the one and one-quarter yard of concrete, is placed underneath the opening of the bin and the contents dropped into it.

A crane then takes this bucket and lifts it to the forms where the concrete is poured into place.

The contractor has been allowed 540 days to complete the dam between Cumberland and Ridgeley.

After the two wingwalls have been completed, the two coffer dams will be removed and a third will be constructed in the center of the river for the center pier, using sheeting that is in the Maryland side cells.

Officers of Fulton Myers Post, 153, American Legion, will be elected today at 7:30 p. m. in the post home, 104 North Mechanic Street.

The election will be conducted by Vice-Commander-At-Large William F. Jones, according to Charles E. Trimble, adjutant.

The March Of Polio

It is too early to tell whether another infantile paralysis epidemic is in the making, but the most recent figures of the U. S. Public Health Service show polio incidence now running about 16½ per cent higher than in 1952. For the "disease year"—beginning April 1—the rate is about 44 per cent higher. And the epidemic in 1952 was the worst in history, with 57,626 reported cases, 3,300 of them fatal.

This year's totals carry through last week. For the calendar year, 3,124 cases had been reported up to June 14, as against 2,678 for the corresponding period of 1952; for the disease year, 1,543 cases, as against 1,064 in 1952. But the heavy case load usually comes in July and August, and authorities will not know until then whether 1953 is to be a major epidemic year.

Since 1920, polio epidemics have become more frequent and more widespread. This has been due in part to easier recognition and better reporting of the disease in recent years. Usually polio has its widest spread immediately following the hottest and most humid weeks of the year.

Each year the disease is first reported in the South—Montgomery County, Ala., has been hit hardest this year—and slowly makes its way northward. Last week new cases were reported from Maryland, the District of Columbia, and Ohio. Higher standards of living in Northern and Mid-Western states may account for the fact that they suffer more severe and more frequent epidemics. Health authorities say that this is because less immunity is acquired in childhood in the North than in the South.

Gamma globulin, the human blood derivative containing antibodies which combat polio, is described as a temporary, partial preventive. It must be administered before the polio virus gets into the blood. GG is in short supply this year. Only about a million doses are available, and their administration will be strictly limited by public health officers.

What appears to be a safe, effective vaccine for polio has been developed, but the supply will not be adequate for the whole country until at least the summer of 1955. A new diagnostic test is still in the laboratory stage.

Something New

All past wars in which the United States has become involved were alike in one respect. As soon as the shooting stopped all efforts were concentrated on getting the boys home as fast as it could be done. But this old American custom may not apply to the Korean struggle. A cease-fire will not be followed by immediate withdrawal of U. S. troops on that ravaged peninsula.

At any rate it is the understanding of UN command headquarters that nothing of the kind will happen. Lieut. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, in a radio talk to the Eighth Army, pointed out that a cease-fire "does not mean that the war is over." He emphasized it with these words:

"The fundamental thought I want to implant in every man's mind is that an armistice is not a peace—it is only a pause in the fighting. There must be no thought of going home until permanent peace and stability have been restored in Korea."

This has a novel sound to American ears—an unwelcome sound. But circumstances are different this time. Always in the past wars in which the U. S. was engaged ended in a decisive victory for the side on which it fought. American occupation troops remained in Germany temporarily after World War I, and U. S. occupation troops remain in Germany, Austria and Japan eight years after the end of World War II, but the numbers involved have been relatively small.

But in Korea victory has not been achieved and it will no doubt be deemed necessary to keep the Eighth Army intact and ready to fight again if need be.

To recognize this is not to make the situation easier for Americans to accept.

Hail The Heliports

Early in 1951 the Port of New York Authority made the top of its building on Eighth Avenue a landing platform for helicopters. Since that time it's been a busy hopping-off-and-on place for the windmills of the Authority and of the New York police department. The other day the city opened "Heliport No. 2" for "vertically-rising rotary wing aircraft" on a pier in the Hudson near the Battery.

For the present the police will be the biggest users of this spot too. But many other people are thinking about it in the New York area. For that city is hard to get into or out of, ordinarily, by all surface transportation except the principal railroads. Helicopters, in the minds of many, are the answer.

Because helicopters can land and take off vertically, and hover if they wish to, they are exempted by the Civil Aeronautics Administration from a number of safety rules governing fixed-wing planes. There is no minimum altitude for them over the city. They are not compelled to stick to over-water approaches.

In July a commercial outfit is planning helicopter service from the Hudson pier to and from all the big airports in the New York area. Other cities are reported considering this solution to their airport problem. At times it takes almost as long to drive from a city hotel to the city's airport as it takes to fly from that field to the next stop on the flight.

First "Real Submarine?"

An enthusiastic nuclear-power man at Groton, Conn., was talking about the USS Nautilus, the big new submarine which is being built there. "The Nautilus," he told the Wall Street Journal, "will be the first true submarine. Present-day subs are merely surface vessels which occasionally submerge."

Maybe he could have gone a bit further and compared the traditional type of submarine to the whale and thus distinguished it from the atom sub which behaves a great deal like the true fishes. An ordinary sub has to come to the surface to breathe. It's true that a snorkel sub doesn't have to break the surface of the water with the whole hull—but the tops of the breather tubes must stick out so as to suck in air for the diesels and the crew.

How can an atomic submarine breathe? In the first place, an atomic reactor engine does not require oxygen. For the lesser quantities of it required in human breathing, the plan is to supplant bottled oxygen with oxygen extracted directly from sea water. When devices bringing oxygen in are teamed with devices for eliminating carbon dioxide, an atom-powered submarine could cruise day after day completely submerged.

If that isn't fishlike, what is?

Husbands At Delivery Time

Several weeks ago, while on the Century traveling from Chicago to New York City, I got into a discussion with a midwestern editor on the old question of whether the father should be allowed in the delivery room. He was all for it and naturally in favor of the trend encouraging more husbands to remain in the labor room with the wife.

So far as I'm concerned, it is an individual problem which is up to the husband, wife, physician, and the law to decide. Some wives don't want the husband with them at this time. In other instances, the husband balks. Now and then it is the physician who objects; he has had experience with husbands who become excited or make unreasonable demands when delivery does not progress as they think it should. Occasionally the husband faints and should this occur at a critical moment it is difficult to treat one without neglecting the other. The obstetrician considers his primary duty the safe delivery of the child and the husband in the circumstances is secondary. The majority of physicians, however, have no objection to making it a family affair provided the life of mother or child is not jeopardized. In some communities the health department forbids father to enter the delivery room. Hospitals also have their own rules along this line.

The primitive women had her baby unattended and helped herself as best she could. In this respect, confinement was natural and unattended by fear. As time went by, according to the Irish obstetrician, Dr. James B. Fleming, her mate came to her assistance and this rule is followed today among the natives of the Brazilian interior and in certain Polynesian islands. Sometimes an attempt was made to transfer the pains to the male, hoping that the woman's suffering thus would be lessened. In this process (couvade) the husband often went to bed while his wife was in labor, groaning vehemently as a symbol of sharpening the pain. In other parts of the world the husband was not wanted. Ancient midwives discouraged them from hanging around by means of various plans. In one, the father-to-be was asked to fetch water from a neighboring well. As soon as he brought one pail they sent him for another. The moment he was out of sight they threw the water away, thus keeping him busy thruout the entire process of labor. One husband remarked that he had no idea so much water was needed for a maternity case?

Prior to the 15th century all men were excluded; the attendants were women, especially those who had experienced labor. On one occasion a physician disguised as a woman decided to witness a birth; he was caught and promptly burned to death. In 1650, Dr. Willughby, a male midwife in Derby, assisted his midwife daughter in the birth of her own child. He was forced to crawl into the darkened room on his hands and knees. Nowadays, the majority of women are delivered by physicians who have have special training along this line. Bringing the husband back into the picture shows that history repeats itself.

McCarthy's Name Featured In European Press More Than Eisenhower's; Europe Doesn't Want To Follow Lead Of Nation Which Lacks Internal Freedom

(Editor's Note—Today Drew Pearson further analyzes the reasons why the United States has lost world leadership just at a time when the Soviet Union is in the throes of satellite turmoil.)

WASHINGTON—Most Americans don't realize it, but Senator McCarthy's name is featured more in the European press than that of President Eisenhower. Furthermore, every detail of our book-burning, the purges of State Department employes and the eavesdropping of government officials on other officials is well publicized in Europe.

Reason for the headlines may be sensational journalism on the part of certain newspapers, but in the responsible papers, which report just as fully, it boils down to the fact that Europe has been tied to America's apron strings and they want to know if the person who wears the apron has changed. They are afraid she has.

They also remember far better than we the Gestapo tactics of Hitler and Mussolini. France, Belgium, Holland, all were occupied by German troops, know firsthand what nazism is, and they want no part of it. And while the picture appearing in their newspapers is exaggerated, nevertheless, the whole wave of "McCarthyism" has caused us incalculable harm.

Here are some of the things that worry our friends abroad and please our enemies:

BOOK-BURNING — Included among the books which have been banned from State Department shelves is "Washington Witch Hunt" by Bert Andrews, stanch Eisenhower supporter and top Washington correspondent for the New York Herald Tribune. His story on loyalty investigations won Mr. Andrews a Pulitzer prize, and he also helped unearth much information against Alger Hiss. Also temporarily banned was a book by John Foster Dulles himself, together with a book by Walter White, anti-Communist Negro leader; Walter Duranty, formerly of the New York Times; and Clarence Streit, former long-time correspondent of the New York Times who has advocated union between the United States and Great Britain.

Europeans see this as the same kind of idea-purging that preceded Hitler's rise to power. They have always thought of the United States as the symbol of freedom, the country whose people were so well-rooted in democracy that they were not afraid to read anything, even Communist books. Now that we seem afraid of such mild books as some of those mentioned above, the impression has grown that we are a Fascist state. Weird as this impression is, a lot of people actually believe it, and Western Europe doesn't want to follow Fascist leadership.

GESTAPO TACTICS—When Scott McLeod, new State Department security officer and a friend of McCarthy's, either ordered or condoned an order whereby German servants were asked to spy on American officials for whom they worked it shocked Europeans. These were exactly the tactics employed by Hitler.

They also noted the manner in which State Department officials have been fired because they had displeased McCarthy. Most noteworthy case was that of Theodore Kaghan who called McCarthy's two junior G-men "junketeering gumshoes." After he was fired, Kaghan's American friends in Germany threw a farewell party for him and security officers slipped around afterward to see who was present. Among the guests they discovered the U. S. high commissioner of Germany himself, James Conant.

To Europeans this sounded like Hitler all over again.

Some of this news played a part in the recent Italian election. Middle-of-the-road Italians who have heavily supported De Gasperi in the past, hate fascism, and when word got around that McCarthy's men were using the German and Italian secret police, were also paying for evidence from European underlings to use against their American employers, were planting secret microphones in American offices, our middle-of-the-road Italian friends began to cool off. America was the chief issue in the Italian election and there's no question but that McCarthyism influenced the unfortunate vote against De Gasperi.

ENEMIES OF THE STATE — Europeans also have not forgotten how Hitler stamped out those who disagreed by branding them enemies of the state; how Stalin purged his opponents by calling them enemies of Russia. To disagree under Hitler and Stalin was to be an enemy.

That's why Europeans view with alarm the new doctrine that the enemies of McCarthy are the enemies of America. They have not forgotten that the man who cleaned most Communists out of Germany was Adolp Hitler—and that thousands of Communists later jumped on his bandwagon.

TWISTING DEFINITIONS — Europeans are also familiar with the totalitarian technique of calling names and giving words new definitions. Thus the word "communism" has come to be used by McCarthy against anyone who criticizes him. He has accused the Saturday Evening Post and Time magazine as being Communist and has urged an advertising boycott against the latter. The Washington Post he has called the Washington edition of the Daily Worker, the Milwaukee Journal which also dared criticize him he called the Wisconsin edition of the Daily Worker, while the Christian Science Monitor, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and the Portland Oregonian he lumps in the same category.

Europeans paid little attention to these mouthings until recently when they have seen the man who makes them elevated to a position of great power, a position where he can and does influence foreign policy, a position in which the new President has at times condoned his operations and in some cases has even praised him.

All these factors have caused great doubt and misgivings among the nations who have been our best friends abroad. And when there is doubt and misgiving about a leader, that leader ceases to lead.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Judge Irving Kaufman

The judge who sentenced the Rosenbergs, Irving R. Kaufman, I know well and respect highly for his character, his courage and his erudition. Only 43 years old, he has already had a long and important career as a lawyer, serving in the Department of Justice before he was appointed to the federal judiciary at the age of 39.

Perhaps never before has a judge in an American court been subjected to such organized mass pressure. Judge Kaufman's life and the lives of his wife and children were threatened. He received so large a volume of vituperative mail that he had to stop reading it; he was called on the telephone day and night until he stopped answering calls even from personal friends. (An unlisted telephone number did not help; somehow the Communists managed to discover what it was.)

But the worst pressure was in that curious New York atmosphere of liberalism, which often rejects the law in favor of mob rule. Every kind of influence was brought to bear on Judge Kaufman to change his decision. The usual argument was:

"Why do you need to assume this responsibility? Make the sentence lower and your troubles will be over." It is the old and dangerous argument against sticking one's neck out, a theory which makes for irresponsibility and even corruption.

This counsel came not from Communists, but from so-called respectable citizens, some of them with important names in the community, men who should understand what the words, duty and responsibility, mean in a free society. They placed personalities above the law and by their conduct imperilled our way of life.

The volume of petitions was enormous and to them were signed the names of important educators, clergymen, authors, politicians, all of whom seemed to view Judge Irving Kaufman as an ogre who was sentencing innocent persons. Yet, the Rosenbergs were convicted by a jury in open court; the conviction was confirmed six times by the Supreme Court of the United States; numerous appeals to the President produced neither pardon nor a commutation.

The Rosenbergs had a fair fight for their lives and their case requires no discussion here. The Communists expended them as readily as they do all the children of the revolution who have served their purposes. Those who join conspiracies must expect to die by them.

Our courts are the last refuge of human freedom because in them the law, not the private advantages of men, should govern. The Federal courts, in particular, have had a good name during most of American history because the judges who served on that bench are appointed for life or good behavior and once appointed are freed forever from the favor of powerful individuals or of the mob.

Judge Irving Kaufman has served with dignity and propriety. The law dictated his conduct and he never faltered in its service.

As I happen to know, Judge Kaufman is a man of deeply religious sensibilities, and therefore it must have been doubly difficult for him to order the death of any human being. But he had also sworn to uphold the law, to protect the Constitution and to maintain our nation. He had to be faithful to his oath.

I need point to the well-known fact that Judge Irving Kaufman is a Jew by birth, by affiliation, and by religious beliefs and practices. The Rosenbergs were born of Jewish parents but, as Marxists, could not have been Jews by religion. Yet, in this amazingly wonderful society of ours, a judge of the Jewish faith sentences two spies of Jewish origin for treason. In this incident, Americanism triumphed. Not even the most vindictive anti-Semite can ignore either the heartbreak of the judge in this case or his stern adherence to duty, which is the duty of a public servant.

The Communists will, from now on, hound Judge Irving Kaufman. They will use every trick and wile to hurt him. That cannot be helped. That is their method and as long as we tolerate them among us, we must expect them to act according to their doctrines.

But the rest of us can do much to honor and respect judges who do their duty and who withstand mob pressure. To the galaxy of America's great judges can now be added the name of Irving Kaufman, servant of the law.

Matter Of Fact

Another Surrender

WASHINGTON

The Eisenhower administration has just added another major surrender to the long tale of its surrenders to the right, or anti-Eisenhower wing of the Republican party. The story is curious indeed. In brief, Assistant Secretary Frank Nash is shortly leaving the Defense Department. Nash is the man who handles all the intricate, vital foreign policy ramifications of American defense policy. The new Defense Department team has no experience whatever in the foreign policy aspect of their problem. Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson sensibly wanted an experienced man to replace Nash.

The White House itself, speaking with the authoritative voice of Presidential Assistant Robert Cutler, therefore nominated the former chief of the State Department Policy Planning Staff, Paul H. Nitze, Wilson assented and asked Nitze to go to work immediately as Nash's assistant. Wilson further indicated that Nitze would be promoted to assistant secretary when Nash left, if the arrangement had proven satisfactory in the interval. Nitze accepted Wilson's offer, and took up his new duties 10 days ago.

At this point, however, a veto was interposed by Sen. Robert A. Taft. Ordinary Republican patronage hunger, plus the prejudices of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's special Republican clique, drove the Ohio senator to intervene. Taft admitted that he had nothing whatever against Nitze, a registered Republican who made a large fortune as a banker before becoming a brilliant civil servant. Taft only argued that Nitze could not have the job because he was a "hangover from the old regime," to use the current phrase.

"Clear It With Bob"

Efforts were made, through Vice President Richard Nixon, to get the veto withdrawn. But Taft was determined to prevent any repetition of the case of Charles E. Bohlen, when the Eisenhower administration was actually forced, for once in a way, to take a stand and make a fight. "Clear it with Bob" is now a firmer rule than "clear it with Sidney." Nitze, hearing of the trouble, volunteered to release Secretary Wilson from their prior understanding. Wilson then sacrificed Nitze, with the full knowledge of President Eisenhower.

Perhaps the best commentary on this episode is an extremely well vouched for story of an exchange between Robert Cutler and Under Secretary of State W. Bedell Smith. Cutler had brought Bedell Smith a White House decision that a nominee for another important post was objectionable because he served in the Truman administration.

Smith remarked that he was surprised to hear such an objection, since he, Smith, was also a survivor from the Truman past. Cutler hastily explained that Smith's case was different, whereas Smith growled:

"And furthermore, Cutler, I can tell you still another man who's a hangover from the old regime."

"Who's that, general?" asked Cutler, unguardedly.

"Dwight D. Eisenhower," said Smith, with special emphasis.

In other words, in making war on Nitze, the right wing Republicans are making war on the President himself. The Nitze case also hints how far these Presidential enemies will go.

The signal for the attack on the Nitze appointment was given by the McCormick press, in an article showing the strongest internal evidence of borrowings from closely guarded government personnel files. There are good reasons to think that the original borrower from the files was one of the members of Sen. McCarthy's private espionage net. Nor could this surprise the President.

Acknowledged Nitze's Part

In at least two other cases, the White House has discovered and removed McCarthy spies in the administration's midst—minor government workers who were reporting to the Wisconsin senator on the daily doings of the President's highest subordinates.

Thus the President had long had the clearest warning as to the character and intention of Nitze's attackers. He has also had the clearest proof of Nitze's usefulness. The fact is that Nitze was the chief ideological contributor to Eisenhower's great speech on peace aims to the American Society of Newspaper Editors. This speech was the President's sole major success in the foreign field since taking office, and the President has generously acknowledged Nitze's part in it.

Finally, the sacrifice of Nitze is also a sacrifice of the vital principle of continuity and experience in American policy making. Nitze is a conspicuous, unimpeachably non-partisan member of the small group of high civil servants who alone supply these indispensible ingredients, experience and continuity.

The clean sweep of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, also made at Sen. Taft's behest, has already established the rule that our highest military commanders are to be political appointees. The Nitze case similarly establishes the rule that the American government does not need knowledge, or training, or previous acquaintance with the facts, in order to tackle the hardest problem the world has ever known. Altogether, this is a surrender the President is likely to regret before long.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The governments of Great Britain, France and the United States may regret some day their cavalier treatment of the government of the Republic of Korea and especially the accusation that the latter has been guilty of "treachery" to the United Nations command.

History will recount that the treatment of this small nation by the major powers was replete with incidents that may well raise the question of whether "treachery" of the UN didn't come first and provoke the action of President Rhee in releasing the anti-Communist prisoners in his jurisdiction.

For, if the record of "treachery" is to be opened up to impartial review, it may come to mean that any independent action by a sovereign government out of harmony with its allies is a breach of faith if it occurs during a war in which presumably there had been a common cause.

Thus was it or was it not "treachery" for the British government to send rubber to Soviet Russia during the Korean War?

Was it "treachery" for the Allies to put pressure on the American government so as to reverse the recommendation of its Joint Chiefs of Staff that enemy airplanes be pursued to their bases when they were attacking United Nations forces?

Was This Treachery

Was it "treachery" when, after the Korean War began, the British government carried on diplomatic relations with the Red China government despite the fact that the UN had recommended the government of Red China as an aggressor?

Wasn't it "treachery" when the Soviet government admitted publicly during a United Nations debate that it had been supplying arms and ammunition to Red China and the North Korean Communist armies? Why didn't the governments of the United States, Great Britain and France send notes to the Moscow government denouncing such "treachery" against other members of the United Nations, which was seeking to repel aggression and had called by formal resolution on all members to refrain from sending help to the aggressors? Or do the big governments use the word "treachery" only against the small, weaker nations? If so, it will not go over so well in Asia when the European and American governments try in the future to impress Asians with their professions of sincerity.

Wasn't it "treachery" when the United Nations, having misled the Republic of Korea into making enormous sacrifices based on the UN resolution of October 7, 1950, abandoned that pledge of unification by military means and gave it an altogether different interpretation in order to make a quick truce with the enemy? The resolution — adopted at the height of the Korean War — pledged the UN forces to establish conditions of peace and stability "throughout Korea."

Was it "treachery" when the United Nations refused to permit the South Korean government to sit as an equal at the Panmunjom negotiating table and actually excluded that government's topmost executive from participating in the negotiations as a principal?

Long Police Action Possible

These questions may be scoffed at by the diplomats who feel that what they do is always right and that any nation which criticizes or dissents from their policies is an obstructionist. But the fact remains that the UN has tried to create the impression that the government of the Republic of Korea is a free and sovereign entity. Not long ago a British spokesman, commenting on differences between America and Britain, said quite pointedly that surely the United States didn't want to act toward Great Britain as if she were a satellite state, for that was a Soviet technique. Yet in Asia and Europe the impression now is being created that, just as North Korea is a puppet of Moscow, so South Korea must become a puppet of Washington or be destroyed.

The March Of Polio

It is too early to tell whether another infantile paralysis epidemic is in the making, but the most recent figures of the U. S. Public Health Service show polio incidence now running about 16½ per cent higher than in 1952. For the "disease year"—beginning April 1—the rate is about 44 per cent higher. And the epidemic in 1952 was the worst in history, with 57,626 reported cases, 3,300 of them fatal.

This year's totals carry through last week. For the calendar year, 3,124 cases had been reported up to June 14, as against 2,678 for the corresponding period of 1952; for the disease year, 1,543 cases, as against 1,064 in 1952. But the heavy case load usually comes in July and August, and authorities will not know until then whether 1953 is to be a major epidemic year.

Since 1920, polio epidemics have become more frequent and more widespread. This has been due in part to easier recognition and better reporting of the disease in recent years. Usually polio has its widest spread immediately following the hottest and most humid weeks of the year.

Each year the disease is first reported in the South—Montgomery County, Ala., has been hit hardest this year—and slowly makes its way northward. Last week new cases were reported from Maryland, the District of Columbia, and Ohio. Higher standards of living in Northern and Mid-Western states may account for the fact that they suffer more severe and more frequent epidemics. Health authorities say that this is because less immunity is acquired in childhood in the North than in the South.

Gamma globulin, the human blood derivative containing antibodies which combat polio, is described as a temporary, partial preventive. It must be administered before the polio virus gets into the blood. GG is in short supply this year. Only about a million doses are available, and their administration will be strictly limited by public health officers.

What appears to be a safe, effective vaccine for polio has been developed, but the supply will not be adequate for the whole country until at least the summer of 1955. A new diagnostic test is still in the laboratory stage.

Something New

All past wars in which the United States has become involved were alike in one respect. As soon as the shooting stopped all efforts were concentrated on getting the boys home as fast as it could be done. But this old American custom may not apply to the Korean struggle. A cease-fire will not be followed by immediate withdrawal of U. S. troops on that ravaged peninsula.

At any rate it is the understanding of UN command headquarters that nothing of the kind will happen. Lieut. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, in a radio talk to the Eighth Army, pointed out that a cease-fire "does not mean that the war is over." He emphasized it with these words:

"The fundamental thought I want to implant in every man's mind is that an armistice is not a peace—it is only a pause in the fighting. There must be no thought of going home until permanent peace and stability have been restored in Korea."

This has a novel sound to American ears—an unwelcome sound. But circumstances are different this time. Always in the past wars in which the U. S. was engaged ended in a decisive victory for the side on which it fought. American occupation troops remained in Germany temporarily after World War I, and U. S. occupation troops remain in Germany, Austria and Japan eight years after the end of World War II, but the numbers involved have been relatively small.

But in Korea victory has not been achieved and it will no doubt be deemed necessary to keep the Eighth Army intact and ready to fight again if need be.

To recognize this is not to make the situation easier for Americans to accept.

Hail The Heliports

Early in 1951 the Port of New York Authority made the top of its building on Eighth Avenue a landing platform for helicopters. Since that time it's been a busy hopping-off-and-on place for the windmills of the Authority and of the New York police department. The other day the city opened "Heliport No. 2" for "vertically-rising rotary wing aircraft" on a pier in the Hudson near the Battery.

For the present the police will be the biggest users of this spot too. But many other people are thinking about it in the New York area. For that city is hard to get into or out of, ordinarily, by all surface transportation except the principal railroads. Helicopters, in the minds of many, are the answer.

Because helicopters can land and take off vertically, and hover if they wish to, they are exempted by the Civil Aeronautics Administration from a number of safety rules governing fixed-wing planes. There is no minimum altitude for them over the city. They are not compelled to stick to over-water approaches.

In July a commercial outfit is planning helicopter service from the Hudson pier to and from all the big airports in the New York area. Other cities are reported considering this solution to their airport problem. At times it takes almost as long to drive from a city hotel to the city's airport as it takes to fly from that field to the next stop on the flight.

First "Real Submarine?"

An enthusiastic nuclear-power man at Groton, Conn., was talking about the USS Nautilus, the big new submarine which is being built there. "The Nautilus," he told the Wall Street Journal, "will be the first true submarine. Present-day subs are merely surface vessels which occasionally submerge."

For the lesser quantities of it required in human breathing, the plan is to supplant bottled oxygen with oxygen extracted directly from sea water. McCarthy's Name Featured In European Press More Than Eisenhower's; Europe Doesn't Want To Follow Lead Of Nation Which Lacks Internal Freedom

(Editor's Note—Today Drew Pearson further analyzes the reasons why the United States has lost world leadership just at a time when the Soviet Union is in the throes of satellite turmoil.)

WASHINGTON—Most Americans don't realize it, but Senator McCarthy's name is featured more in the European press than that of President Eisenhower. Furthermore, every detail of our book-burning, the purges of State Department employes and the eavesdropping of government officials on other officials is well publicized in Europe.

Reason for the headlines may be sensational journalism on the part of certain newspapers, but in the responsible papers, which report just as fully, it boils down to the fact that Europe has been tied to America's apron strings and they want to know if the person who wears the apron has changed. They are afraid she has.

They also remember far better than we the Gestapo tactics of Hitler and Mussolini. France, Belgium, Holland, all were occupied by German troops, know first-hand what nazism is, and they want no part of it. And while the picture appearing in their newspapers is exaggerated, nevertheless, the whole wave of "McCarthyism" has caused us incalculable harm.

Here are some of the things that worry our friends abroad and please our enemies:

BOOK-BURNING — Included among the books which have been banned from State Department shelves is "Washington Witch Hunt" by Bert Andrews, stanch Eisenhower supporter and top Washington correspondent for the New York Herald Tribune. His story on loyalty investigations won Mr. Andrews a Pulitzer prize, and he also helped unearth much information against Alger Hiss. Also temporarily banned was a book by John Foster Dulles himself, together with a book by Walter White, anti-Communist Negro leader; Walter Duranty, formerly of the New York Times; and Clarance Streit, former long-time correspondent of the New York Times who has advocated union between the United States and Great Britain.

Europeans see this as the same kind of idea-purging that preceded Hitler's rise to power. They have always thought of the United States as the symbol of freedom, the country whose people were so well-rooted in democracy that they were not afraid to read anything, even Communist books. Now that we seem afraid of such mild books as some of those mentioned above, the impression has grown that we are a Fascist state. Weird as this impression is, a lot of people actually believe it, and Western Europe doesn't want to follow Fascist leadership.

GESTAPO TACTICS—When Scott McLeod, new State Department security officer and a friend of McCarthy's, either ordered or condoned an order whereby German servants were asked to spy on American officials for whom they worked it shocked Europeans. These were exactly the tactics employed by Hitler.

They also noted the manner in which State Department officials have been fired because they had displeased McCarthy. Most noteworthy case was that of Theodore Kaghan who called McCarthy's two junior G-men "junketeering gumshoes." After he was fired, Kaghan's American friends in Germany threw a farewell party for him and security officers slipped around afterward to see who was present. Among the guests they discovered the U. S. high commissioner of Germany himself, James Conant.

To Europeans this sounded like Hitler all over again.

Some of this news played a part in the recent Italian election. Middle-of-the-road Italians who have heavily supported De Gasperi in the past, hate fascism, and when word got around that McCarthy's men were using the German and Italian secret police, were also paying for evidence from European underlings to use against their American employers, were planting secret microphones in American offices, our middle-of-the-road Italian friends began to cool off. America was the chief issue in the Italian election and there's no question but that McCarthyism influenced the unfortunate vote against De Gasperi.

ENEMIES OF THE STATE — Europeans also have not forgotten how Hitler stamped out those who disagreed by branding them enemies of the state; how Stalin purged his opponents by calling them enemies of Russia. To disagree under Hitler and Stalin was to be an enemy.

That's why Europeans view with alarm the new doctrine that the enemies of McCarthy are the enemies of America. They have not forgotten that the man who cleaned most Communists out of Germany was Adolp Hitler—and that thousands of Communists later jumped on his bandwagon.

TWISTING DEFINITIONS — Europeans are also familiar with the totalitarian technique of calling names and giving words new definitions. Thus the word "communism" has come to be used by McCarthy against anyone who criticizes him. He has accused the Saturday Evening Post and Time magazine as being Communist and has urged an advertising boycott against the latter. The Washington Post he has called the Washington edition of the Daily Worker, the Milwaukee Journal which also dared criticize him he called the Wisconsin edition of the Daily Worker, while the Christian Science Monitor, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and the Portland Oregonian he lumps in the same category.

Europeans paid little attention to these mouthings until recently when they have seen the man who makes them elevated to a position of great power, a position where he can and does influence foreign policy, a position in which the new President has at times condoned his operations and in some cases has even praised him.

All these factors have caused great doubt and misgivings among the nations who have been our best friends abroad. And when there is doubt and misgiving about a leader, that leader ceases to lead.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Judge Irving Kaufman

The judge who sentenced the Rosenbergs, Irving R. Kaufman, I know well and respect highly for his character, his courage and his erudition. Only 43 years old, he has already had a long and important career as a lawyer, serving in the Department of Justice before he was appointed to the federal judiciary at the age of 39.

Perhaps never before has a judge in an American court been subjected to such organized mass pressure. Judge Kaufman's life and the lives of his wife and children were threatened. He received so large a volume of vituperative mail that he had to stop reading it; he was called on the telephone day and night until he stopped answering calls even from personal friends. (An unlisted telephone number did not help; somehow the Communists managed to discover what it was.)

But the worst pressure was in that curious New York atmosphere of liberalism, which often rejects the law in favor of mob rule. Every kind of influence was brought to bear on Judge Kaufman to change his decision. The usual argument was:

"Why do you need to assume this responsibility? Make the sentence lower and your troubles will be over." It is the old and dangerous argument against sticking one's neck out, a theory which makes for irresponsibility and even corruption.

This counsel came not from Communists, but from so-called respectable citizens, some of them with important names in the community, men who should understand what the words, duty and responsibility, mean in a free society. They placed personalities above the law and by their conduct imperilled our way of life.

The volume of petitions was enormous and to them were signed the names of important educators, clergymen, authors, politicians, all of whom seemed to view Judge Irving Kaufman as an ogre who was sentencing innocent persons. Yet, the Rosenbergs were convicted by a jury in open court; the conviction was confirmed six times by the Supreme Court of the United States; numerous appeals to the President produced neither pardon nor a commutation.

The Rosenbergs had a fair fight for their lives and their case requires no discussion here. The Communists expended them as readily as they do all the children of the revolution who have served their purposes. Those who join conspiracies must expect to die by them.

Our courts are the last refuge of human freedom because in them the law, not the private advantages of men, should govern. The Federal courts, in particular, have had a good name during most of American history because the judges who served on that bench are appointed for life or good behavior and once appointed are freed forever from the favor of powerful individuals or of the mob.

Judge Irving Kaufman has served with dignity and propriety. The law dictated his conduct and he never faltered in its service.

As I happen to know, Judge Kaufman is a man of deeply religious sensibilities, and therefore it must have been doubly difficult for him to order the death of any human being. But he had also sworn to uphold the law, to protect the Constitution and to maintain our nation. He had to be faithful to his oath.

I need point to the well-known fact that Judge Irving Kaufman is a Jew by birth, by affiliation, and by religious beliefs and practices. The Rosenbergs were born of Jewish parents but, as Marxists, could not have been Jews by religion. Yet, in this amazingly wonderful society of ours, a judge of the Jewish faith sentences two spies of Jewish origin for treason. In this incident, Americanism triumphed. Not even the most vindictive anti-Semite can ignore either the heartbreak of the judge in this case or his stern adherence to duty, which is the duty of a public servant.

The Communists will, from now on, hound Judge Irving Kaufman. They will use every trick and wile to hurt him. That cannot be helped. That is their method and as long as we tolerate them among us, we must expect them to act according to their doctrines.

But the rest of us can do much to honor and respect judges who do their duty and who withstand mob pressure. To the galaxy of America's great judges can now be added the name of Irving Kaufman, servant of the law.

Matter Of Fact

Another Surrender

WASHINGTON

The Eisenhower administration has just added another major surrender to the long tale of its surrenders to the right, or anti-Eisenhower wing of the Republican party. The story is curious indeed. In brief, Assistant Secretary Frank Nash is shortly leaving the Defense Department. Nash is the man who handles all the intricate, vital foreign policy ramifications of American defense policy. The new Defense Department team has no experience whatever in the foreign policy aspect of their problem. Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson sensibly wanted an experienced man to replace Nash.

The White House itself, speaking with the authoritative voice of Presidential Assistant Robert Cutler, therefore nominated the former chief of the State Department Policy Planning Staff, Paul H. Nitze, Wilson assented and asked Nitze to go to work immediately as Nash's assistant. Wilson further indicated that Nitze would be promoted to assistant secretary when Nash left, if the arrangement had proven satisfactory in the interval. Nitze accepted Wilson's offer, and took up his new duties 10 days ago.

At this point, however, a veto was interposed by Sen. Robert A. Taft. Ordinary Republican patronage hunger, plus the prejudices of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's special Republican clique, drove the Ohio senator to intervene. Taft admitted that he had nothing whatever against Nitze, a registered Republican who made a large fortune as a banker before becoming a brilliant civil servant. Taft only argued that Nitze could not have the job because he was a "hangover from the old regime," to use the current phrase.

"Clear It With Bob"

Efforts were made, through Vice President Richard Nixon, to get the veto withdrawn. But Taft was determined to prevent any repetition of the case of Charles E. Bohlen, when the Eisenhower administration was actually forced, for once in a way, to take a stand and make a fight. "Clear it with Bob" is now a firmer rule than "clear it with Sidney." Nitze, hearing of the trouble, volunteered to release Secretary Wilson from their prior understanding. Wilson then sacrificed Nitze, with the full knowledge of President Eisenhower.

Perhaps the best commentary on this episode is an extremely well vouched for story of an exchange between Robert Cutler and Under Secretary of State W. Bedell Smith. Cutler had brought Bedell Smith a White House decision that a nominee for another important post was objectionable because he served in the Truman administration.

Smith remarked that he was surprised to hear such an objection, since he, Smith, was also a survivor from the Truman past. Cutler hastily explained that Smith's case was different, whereas Smith growled:

"And furthermore, Cutler, I can tell you still another man who's a hangover from the old regime."

"Who's that, general?" asked Cutler, unguardedly.

"Dwight D. Eisenhower," said Smith, with special emphasis.

In other words, in making war on Nitze, the right wing Republicans are making war on the President himself. The Nitze case also hints how far these Presidential enemies will go.

The signal for the attack on the Nitze appointment was given by the McCormick press, in an article showing the strongest internal evidence of borrowings from closely guarded government personnel files. There are good reasons to think that the original borrower from the files was one of the members of Sen. McCarthy's private espionage net. Nor could this surprise the President.

Acknowledged Nitze's Part

In at least two other cases, the White House has discovered and removed McCarthy spies in the administration's midst—minor government workers who were reporting to the Wisconsin senator on the daily doings of the President's highest subordinates.

Thus the President had long had the clearest warning as to the character and intention of Nitze's attackers. He has also had the clearest proof of Nitze's usefulness. The fact is that Nitze was the chief ideological contributor to Eisenhower's great speech on peace aims to the American Society of Newspaper Editors. This speech was the President's sole major success in the foreign field since taking office, and the President has generously acknowledged Nitze's part in it.

Finally, the sacrifice of Nitze is also a sacrifice of the vital principle of continuity and experience in American policy making. Nitze is a conspicuous, unimpeachably non-partisan member of the small group of high civil servants who alone supply these indispensible ingredients, experience and continuity.

The clean sweep of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, also made at Sen. Taft's behest, has already established the rule that our highest military commanders are to be political appointees. The Nitze case similarly establishes the rule that the American government does not need knowledge, or training, or previous acquaintance with the facts, in order to tackle the hardest problem the world has ever known. Altogether, this is a surrender the President is likely to regret before long.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The governments of Great Britain, France and the United States may regret some day their cavalier treatment of the government of the Republic of Korea and especially the accusation that the latter has been guilty of "treachery" to the United Nations command.

History will recount that the treatment of this small nation by the major powers was replete with incidents that may well raise the question of whether "treachery" of the UN didn't come first and provoke the action of President Rhee in releasing the anti-Communist prisoners in his jurisdiction.

For, if the record of "treachery" is to be opened up to impartial review, it may come to mean that any independent action by a sovereign government out of harmony with its allies is a breach of faith if it occurs during a war in which presumably there had been a common cause.

Thus was it or was it not "treachery" for the British government to send rubber to Soviet Russia during the Korean War?

Was it "treachery" for the Allies to put pressure on the American government so as to reverse the recommendation of its Joint Chiefs of Staff that enemy airplanes be pursued to their bases when they were attacking United Nations forces?

Was This Treachery

Was it "treachery" when, after the Korean War began, the British government carried on diplomatic relations with the Red China government despite the fact that the UN had recommended the government of Red China as an aggressor?

Wasn't it "treachery" when the Soviet government admitted publicly during a United Nations debate that it had been supplying arms and ammunition to Red China and the North Korean Communist armies? Why didn't the governments of the United States, Great Britain and France send notes to the Moscow government denouncing such "treachery" against other members of the United Nations, which was seeking to repel aggression and had called by formal resolution on all members to refrain from sending help to the aggressors? Or do the big governments use the word "treachery" only against the small, weaker nations? If so, it will not go over so well in Asia when the European and American governments try in the future to impress Asians with their professions of sincerity.

Wasn't it "treachery" when the United Nations, having misled the Republic of Korea into making enormous sacrifices based on the UN resolution of October 7, 1950, abandoned that pledge of unification by military means and gave it an altogether different interpretation in order to make a quick truce with the enemy? The resolution — adopted at the height of the Korean War — pledged the UN forces to establish conditions of peace and stability "throughout Korea."

Was it "treachery" when the United Nations refused to permit the South Korean government to sit as an equal at the Panmunjom negotiating table and actually excluded that government's topmost executive from participating in the negotiations as a principal?

Long Police Action Possible

These questions may be scoffed at by the diplomats who feel that what they do is always right and that any nation which criticizes or dissents from their policies is an obstructionist. But the fact remains that the UN has tried to create the impression that the government of the Republic of Korea is a free and sovereign entity. Not long ago a British spokesman, commenting on differences between America and Britain, said quite pointedly that surely the United States didn't want to act toward Great Britain as if she were a satellite state, for that was a Soviet technique. Yet in Asia and Europe the impression now is being created that, just as North Korea is a puppet of Moscow, so South Korea must become a puppet of Washington or be destroyed.

Board Rebuffs Negro Students

BALTIMORE, June 24 (AP) — The Baltimore School Board yesterday rejected the applications of 24 Negro girls seeking admission to Western High School, and a lawyer said the matter would be taken to court.

Roszel C. Thomsen, president of the school commissioners, said they were not convinced educational opportunities in the school for white girls are superior to those offered the applicants at the co-educational Douglass High School for Negroes.

The board of school superintendents earlier had recommended rejection of the applications, saying the Baltimore City Code requiring segregation would make it illegal to admit the Negro students to Western.

The superintendents said rejection would conform with city code without violating Supreme Court rulings calling for equal educational facilities for whites and Negroes.

Mrs. Juanita Mitchell, attorney for the Negro girls, said they would ask the courts to compel school officials to admit them to

Bathers Get Tips On Care Of Swim Suit

Parading before the public eye at this time of year at seashore resorts, pools and other places of aquatic sports across the nation are the latest styles and patterns in swim suits.

And you may be sure that the fine materials woven into these suits are also highly noticed. A leading manufacturer, however, reminds the swimmer or sunbather that extra care must be taken if the garment is to last out the summer and look as it did the first day it was worn.

Your swimsuit is a fashion item and made to flatter the wearer with soft and lovely styling that is feminine and delicate, so it should be treated like fine intimate apparel.

The manufacturer notes that although the finest dyes, fabrics and finishings available are used the delicate colors and fragile fabrics desired in the swimsuit of today cannot be guaranteed color fast to:

Salt, chlorine, perspiration, uric acid, excessive ultra violet rays, cleaning solvents and body lotions. Other things which will take away from the appearance of the suit are friction caused by sitting or slipping on rough surfaces; mildew caused by failure to rinse and dry garments properly and snags resulting from fingernails or contact with sharp or rough objects.

Ways to combat that "shaggy bathing suit look" when among your best friends include the use of care in putting on or taking off the suit especially if the suit or body is wet.

Also avoid fingernail damage to the fabric or faggoting and above all always fasten hook at top of zipper before zipping up if your suit is this type model.

Assurance against mildew or loss of elasticity is to rinse the suit in clear water after each wearing, dry thoroughly and away from the sun or direct heat.

About the best way to prolong the life of your suit, if you can afford it, is to buy two or three and shift them around from day to day.

Nowadays with such precautions one need not fret over the old saying, "hang your clothes on a hickory limb but don't go near the water."

The trim, slim hips demanded for matchstick fashions will be yours if you do the "bumps-a-daisy" daily!

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

To match your figure to matchstick fashions, look to your hipline. Put on your straightest skirt and look at yourself, back and profile. Do your hips pass the test for the straight and narrow? Or do you see side-hip bulges, high-hip baloons or derriere spread?

Hips can be coaxed into the line of fashion with a combination of corsetry and exercise.

To select the proper hip-controlling foundation, you must know exactly how far off your measurements are. Get out your tape right now and measure your waistline and the fullest part of your hips. If the difference is under eight inches, put yourself down as a straight-hipped type. With nine to ten inches difference, your hips are average but with a reading of eleven inches or over, hips are considered full—too full, especially for current fashions.

Streamlining Hips

Designers of foundations bear these variations in mind, so—for example—many girdles sized 32 (waist measurement) come in all three hip developments. For the sake of maximum contouring, always check this point with your corsetiere at fittings.

Also remember that it is not bulk but the construction of a garment that counts. For the heavy-hipped, refinement is achieved with four-section girdles or corselets, with fabric or downstretch panels at front, back and sides alternated with panels of two-way stretch elastic. The wispy woman may need nothing more for a smoothing effect than a lace or power net elastic pantie girdle.

You'll find the answer to all spot controlling in our corsetry booklet, "Figured for You." See instructions for obtaining a copy at the end of this column.

Bumps-a-daisy

Fashion creators predict the continuance of slim lines next season. Here's a bumps-a-daisy that will put your hips naturally in line with fashion in as little as six weeks:

Flat on your back on the floor, bend your right knee so your right foot rests on the floor. Raise your left hip and slap it against the floor ten times. Reverse and slap the right hip. Alternating, work for a count of fifty. Be careful never to come down on your spine—let your weight fall on the spots that need it most.

A streamline figure is always in fashion!

Tomorrow: Aids for controlling appetite.

"FIGURED FOR YOU"

Specially prepared by figure and fashion experts EXCLUSIVELY for readers of this column. FIGURED FOR YOU, gives detailed instructions and illustrates how to select foundation garments that provide comeliness, control and healthful comfort for your individual type of figure. Send 10c in coin, plus stamped, self-addressed envelope to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper for FIGURED FOR YOU.

Bathers Get Tips On Care Of Swim Suit

Parading before the public eye at this time of year at seashore resorts, pools and other places of aquatic sports across the nation are the latest styles and patterns in swim suits.

And you may be sure that the fine materials woven into these suits are also highly noticed. A leading manufacturer, however, reminds the swimmer or sunbather that extra care must be taken if the garment is to last out the summer and look as it did the first day it was worn.

Your swimsuit is a fashion item and made to flatter the wearer with soft and lovely styling that is feminine and delicate, so it should be treated like fine intimate apparel.

The manufacturer notes that although the finest dyes, fabrics and finishings available are used the delicate colors and fragile fabrics desired in the swimsuit of today cannot be guaranteed color fast to:

Salt, chlorine, perspiration, uric acid, excessive ultra violet rays, cleaning solvents and body lotions. Other things which will take away from the appearance of the suit are friction caused by sitting or slipping on rough surfaces; mildew caused by failure to rinse and dry garments properly and snags resulting from fingernails or contact with sharp or rough objects.

Ways to combat that "shaggy bathing suit look" when among your best friends include the use of care in putting on or taking off the suit especially if the suit or body is wet.

Also avoid fingernail damage to the fabric or faggoting and above all always fasten hook at top of zipper before zipping up if your suit is this type model.

Assurance against mildew or loss of elasticity is to rinse the suit in clear water after each wearing, dry thoroughly and away from the sun or direct heat.

About the best way to prolong the life of your suit, if you can afford it, is to buy two or three and shift them around from day to day.

Nowadays with such precautions one need not fret over the old saying, "hang your clothes on a hickory limb but don't go near the water."

The trim, slim hips demanded for matchstick fashions will be yours if you do the "bumps-a-daisy" daily!

Secrets Of Charm
by John Robert Powers

To match your figure to matchstick fashions, look to your hipline. Put on your straightest skirt and look at yourself, back and profile. Do your hips pass the test for the straight and narrow? Or do you see side-hip bulges, high-hip baloons or derriere spread?

Hips can be coaxed into the line of fashion with a combination of corsetry and exercise.

To select the proper hip-controlling foundation, you must know exactly how far off your measurements are. Get out your tape right now and measure your waistline and the fullest part of your hips. If the difference is under eight inches, put yourself down as a straight-hipped type. With nine to ten inches difference, your hips are average but with a reading of eleven inches or over, hips are considered full—too full, especially for current fashions.

Streamlining Hips

Designers of foundations bear these variations in mind, so—for example—many girdles sized 32 (waist measurement) come in all three hip developments. For the sake of maximum contouring, always check this point with your corsetiere at fittings.

Also remember that it is not bulk but the construction of a garment that counts. For the heavy-hipped, refinement is achieved with four-section girdles or corselets, with fabric or downstretch panels at front, back and sides alternated with panels of two-way stretch elastic. The wispy woman may need nothing more for a smoothing effect than a lace or power net elastic pantie girdle.

You'll find the answer to all spot controlling in our corsetry booklet, "Figured for You." See instructions for obtaining a copy at the end of this column.

Bumps-a-daisy

Fashion creators predict the continuance of slim lines next season. Here's a bumps-a-daisy that will put your hips naturally in line with fashion in as little as six weeks:

Flat on your back on the floor, bend your right knee so your right foot rests on the floor. Raise your left hip and slap it against the floor ten times. Reverse and slap the right hip. Alternating, work for a count of fifty. Be careful never to come down on your spine—let your weight fall on the spots that need it most.

A streamline figure is always in fashion!

Tomorrow: Aids for controlling appetite.

"FIGURED FOR YOU"

Specially prepared by figure and fashion experts EXCLUSIVELY for readers of this column. FIGURED FOR YOU, gives detailed instructions and illustrates how to select foundation garments that provide comeliness, control and healthful comfort for your individual type of figure. STAG LINES for men

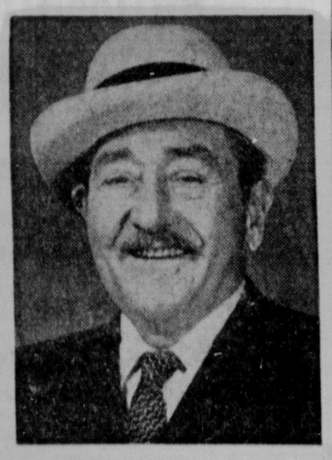
by Bert Bacharach

Straw Homburgs



Warm-Weather Homburg

FASHION: The new boom in Homburgs isn't going away for the summer. A new, lightweight straw version of the winter hat carries the dressy Homburg design over into summer wear. In the forefront of warm-weather Homburg fans is well dressed actor Adolphe Menjou (at right).

Announcement: In answer to many requests, we have just prepared a free six-page booklet containing the "83 Best Handyman Hints From Stag Lines." It's full of useful information that's yours for the asking with a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Just write to "Stag Lines," in care of this newspaper.

Shave Tips: If you use one of the air-pressure shaving creams, you can get out that last blob by first immersing the can in hot water. . . . Don't bother to dry your razor blade after rinsing. It won't rust and will stay sharper if it doesn't come in contact with a cloth.

Handy Help: You can get ink marks off the top of your desk by applying, then removing, a piece of cellulose tape. . . . Keep a folded paper sack in your golf or kit bag against the day when you'll need something to carry muddy golf shoes home.

Gene Evans

Dress Hints: Film actor Gene Evans (see small photo) has a fashion help for freckled men—like himself. He says that while plain patterns make freckles stand out there's nothing like pepper-and-salt tweeds to make them less pronounced. . . . If you want to see the smartest sports outfits of the year, take a look at Donald O'Connor and George Sanders in "Call Me Madam."

Pass the Cigars: This week to—Benjamin Abrams, head of Emerson Radio & Phonograph Corporation, who has been one of the most valiant battlers for educational television in the country. Useful Knot: The now-popular smaller and neater collars call for a special, small kind of knot in your tie. A good one to use is the so-called "reverse Windsor," which gives a small enough knot with the shape and smartness of a regular Windsor. It helps, too, with shorter-than-normal ties. Drawings (below) give a step-by-step demonstration.

1. Place under side of tie up.
2. Carry short end over long.
3. Loop long end over and down.
4. Twist across, right side up.
5. Up, out and through the loop.
6. Turn short end; tighten.

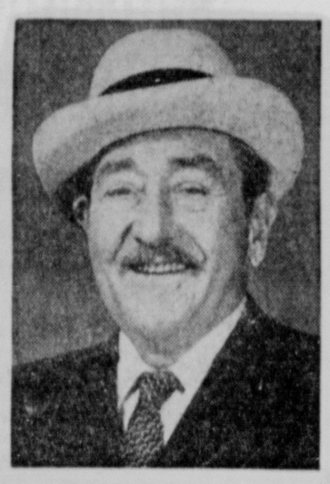
STAG LINES for men

by Bert Bacharach

Straw Homburgs



Warm-Weather Homburg

FASHION: The new boom in Homburgs isn't going away for the summer. A new, lightweight straw version of the winter hat carries the dressy Homburg design over into summer wear. In the forefront of warm-weather Homburg fans is well dressed actor Adolphe Menjou (at right).

Announcement: In answer to many requests, we have just prepared a free six-page booklet containing the "83 Best Handyman Hints From Stag Lines." It's full of useful information that's yours for the asking with a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Just write to "Stag Lines," in care of this newspaper.

Shave Tips: If you use one of the air-pressure shaving creams, you can get out that last blob by first immersing the can in hot water. . . . Don't bother to dry your razor blade after rinsing. It won't rust and will stay sharper if it doesn't come in contact with a cloth.

Handy Help: You can get ink marks off the top of your desk by applying, then removing, a piece of cellulose tape. . . . Keep a folded paper sack in your golf or kit bag against the day when you'll need something to carry muddy golf shoes home.

Gene Evans

Dress Hints: Film actor Gene Evans (see small photo) has a fashion help for freckled men—like himself. He says that while plain patterns make freckles stand out there's nothing like pepper-and-salt tweeds to make them less pronounced. . . . If you want to see the smartest sports outfits of the year, take a look at Donald O'Connor and George Sanders in "Call Me Madam."

Beall Introduces Bill To Reduce U. S. Debt

Senator J. Glenn Beall (R-Md.) has introduced legislation in Congress to enable the government to dispose of its federal housing mortgages and thereby reduce the national debt $2,477,268,000.

The Maryland Senator's bill would authorize liquidation of the Federal National Mortgage Association, commonly known in housing and banking circles as "Fannie May."

Under the proposal the association would exchange 344,287 mortgages, valued at $2,477,268,000, for government bonds now held by banks, saving and loan associations and other institutions.

Would Cancel Debt

Upon completion of this exchange the bonds acquired by the Federal National Mortgage Association would be turned over to the Secretary of the Treasury, who, in turn, would cancel an equivalent amount of indebtedness to the Treasury.

The public debt is about $267,000,000,000.

"This bill," said Senator Beall as he offered it in the Senate, "would permit the government to get out of the mortgage business and retire $2,500,000,000 of national debt.

"There is no longer any need for the federal government to be purchasing mortgages. In fact, the association is out of the mortgage business altogether, except for defense, disaster and military mortgages.

Back To Banks

"Under my bill the government would retire part of its bonded debt and put the mortgages back into the banks, and building and loan associations who are servicing them anyway."

The association already has been liquidating its mortgage holdings at a rate of about $3,000,000 a month. Beall's proposal would speed up the process.

The Federal National Mortgage Association was created in 1938 to promote the loan program of the Federal Housing Administration.

Since then it has undergone a number of shifts and reorganizations.

Under the original reorganization Plan No. 1 of the Roosevelt Administration the association was grouped with other agencies to form the Federal Loan Agency on July 1, 1939.

Transferred By Order

By executive order it was transferred to the Department of Commerce on February 24, 1942.

By act of Congress approved February 24, 1945, it was returned to the Federal Loan Agency. Subsequently an act of Congress approved June 30, 1947, abolished the Federal Loan Agency and transferred all property and records to the RFC.

Under Reorganization Plan 22 of the Truman Administration, the association was transferred to the Housing and Home Finance Agency, effective July 10, 1950. The scope of the association was broadened after the war to include Veterans Administration mortgages as well as public housing.

During the recent consideration of the first Independent Offices Appropriation Bill the administrator of the mortgage association was directed to make every effort to dispose of $1,000,000,000 of mortgage holdings in the coming year.

Tax Collections At Court House Top $1,100,000

Payment of county and state real estate taxes at the Court House here so far this month have exceeded $1,100,000, according to Tax Collector Ernest B. Treat.

Before the end of the month next Tuesday, Treat believes the total collections will be in the neighborhood of $1,700,000. Normally he expects about 88 per cent of the $2,000,000 in annual tax collections to be paid in June.

June gets the bulk of the collections because those who pay this month get a five per cent discount in their payment. In July it drops to four per cent and in August is three per cent. Treat's office sent some 20,000 tax bills out late in May.

Other tax collectors at Frostburg and Lonaconing also are receiving payments this month.

Health Sanitarians Have Busy Month

Health Department sanitarians made 459 field trips in this area last month on projects designed to protect the health of the residents of Allegany County.

A report issued by J. B. Dowling, state sanitarian, showed 138 of the trips dealt with sewage problems, 115 nuisance complaints, 82 food establishments, 101 to dairy farms and eight to milk processing plants.

The sanitarians collected for analysis 43 water samples, 20 food samples, 222 milk, 12 ice samples and took 101 swab tests on dishes and glassware used in food and drink establishments.

During the month, 42 septic tanks were installed, 23 milk permits issued, 31 septic tank permits handed out and one house condemned.

Playground Plans Scavenger Hunt

Johnson Heights Playground will hold a scavenger hunt today at 2 p.m. at the playground, according to Richard Bittner, leader. Prizes will be awarded the winners.

Plans for organizing softball leagues are underway at the play center.

A meeting was held last night for boys interested in forming teams. A similar meeting will be held today at 7 p.m. for girls who wish to play in the Pigtail League.

Dutch Broaden Ban On Trade With Reds

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., June 24 (AP)—The Netherlands Delegate D. J. von Balluseck officially informed the U. N. today that Holland has prohibited any Dutch vessels from calling at any port in Communist China or North Korea when carrying arms, ammunitions or implements of war or strategic goods. This step was taken in accord with the U. N. Assembly decision of 1951 laying down an embargo against shipment of war supplies to the Communists in China and North Korea. The Dutch already have issued regulations against trading with those countries and the new order broadens the restriction.

Cross Bun Wins Fairgo Feature, Wagering Tops 1952 Mark

Mrs. Saportas Is Winner Of Trainer Prize

Victor Disqualified, Young Is Suspended; Bets Up 2.4 Per Cent

The curtain was lowered on the Cumberland Fair Association's 29th annual racing meet yesterday at Fairgo where Cross Bun, a three-year-old filly owned by R. R. McClarin and ridden by Mike Sorrentino, defeated Skin Junior, the favorite, by three lengths to win the Cumberland Day Purse, feature event on the Getaway Day card.

A gathering estimated at 5,500 persons wagered $228,959 on the eight races and upped the mutuel handle for the ten days to $1,935,231, which was $45,477 or 2.4 per cent better than the 1952 mark of $1,889,754. Last year's 10-day handle, incidentally, was the lowest recorded here in nine years.

This year's total also bettered the 1950 handle by $30,307. Betting in 1949 and 1951 exceeded the two million dollar mark.

Winner Is Disqualified

The grand finale of 1953 was marked by the disqualification of a winning horse and also the suspension of a rider. This occurred in the second race which Miss Shiloh had won. Raymond Drury on Lucky Patti, which finished third, filed an objection with the stewards against Fred Young on Miss Shiloh and the officials disqualified Miss Shiloh, dropped her into third place, for interfering with Lucky Patti.

The stewards later announced that Young was suspended for ten days for rough riding, effective June 25 through July 6. The ruling holds good on all other tracks.

Mrs. George A. Saportas, Jr., of Monkton, Md., clinched the trainers' prize for the second straight year when Sassy Shirl, a 5 to 1 shot, captured the sixth race — Frostburg Purse — and returned $12.80. The "Babe" saddled her eighth and final winner when Cross Bun took the main event and the "Queen of the Half Milers" received a double reward at the conclusion.

Gets Double Reward

Mayor Roy W. Eves presented the Ward N. Hauger Jewelry Company's gold wrist watch to Mrs. Saportas for saddling the winner of the Cumberland Day Purse and then Miss Carolyn Deck, "Miss Western Maryland of 1953" gave the "Babe" the Harvey Jewelry Company trophy for leading the trainers with 48 points, ten more than were registered by William D. Thomas of Radnor, Pa. Miss Deck also presented Mike Sorrentino, the top jockey who rode 18 winners and scored 124 points, with the Harvey Jewelry Company gold wrist watch and planted a kiss on the rider's cheek.

Jimmy Fitzgerald, aboard Star Child, filed an objection against Eugene Dosher on Skin Junior in the seventh race but the stewards disallowed the claim of foul. Skin Junior finished second and Star Child third.

Tigers Pin Back Athletics' Ears

Four Runs In Opener Sink Philly Team, 6-3

PHILADELPHIA, June 24 (AP)—The lowly Detroit Tigers pinned back the ears of the almost as lowly Philadelphia Athletics for the second straight time tonight 6-3 as winner Ned Garver survived a three-run Philadelphia flurry in the eighth inning. Steve Souchock's two-run homer headed up a four-run Tiger rally in the first.

The four Detroit runs in the first came on singles Harvey Kuenn, Johnny Pesky and Bob Neiman plus a long outfield fly by Walt Dropo and Souchock's homer—his third of the season. Pesky's single scored Kuenn and Dropo's flyout brought in Pesky after the catch, while Nieman romped home ahead of Souchock.

Tommy Mont Is Offered Grid Contract By Mexican School

Former Cumberlander Has Not Made Up Mind

COLLEGE PARK, Md., June 24 (AP)—Tommy Mont, University of Maryland backfield coach, said tonight he had been offered "a very attractive contract" to become head football coach at National Polytechnic Institute in Mexico City.

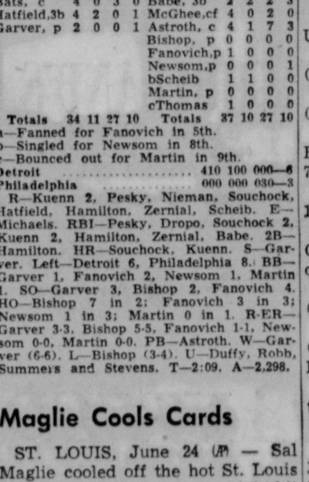
"I have not made up my mind what to do yet," Mont said. "I want to emphasize, though, that I've been very happy here at my old school. I may decide before the end of this week."

Mont did not disclose the terms of the offer, but said he could have a three or five-year contract if he desired.

The former star quarterback at Maryland in 1941 and 1942 said he went to Mexico City over the week end to study the situation.

Mont said he was "amazed" by the football setup in Mexico. He said Mexico City has a new stadium which seats 120,000 spectators. "I've seen nothing to compare with it in this country," he said.

While there, Mont observed two workouts by the Polytechnic team.



TOMMY MONT

"They're not as big as we are," he said, "but they're wild about football. That's all they live for."

Mont, former gridder with the Washington Redskins, said he was surprised to find the Mexicans using the same Split-T formation which Maryland has used to become one of the grid powers in the United States.

WINNER—Owned by Mrs. W. D. Thomas, trained by W. D. Thomas.

Vojean was rushed into a contending position while on the outside down the backstretch, attained a clear lead in the early stretch under pressure and was fully extended at the end. Spindle, showed in front at the break, saved ground throughout but could not stay with the winner and just lasted to hold Good Valley safe. The latter, away very poorly, might have been best with more alert handling at the break. Dividandy had no apparent excuse. Direct Time was not a dangerous factor. Others were outrun.

WINNER—Owned by L. Delloso, trained by E. R. Myers.

Miss Shiloh, steadied while not far off the early pace of Rugene, took the lead from that one under pressure, bore in sharply against Lucky Patti in the stretch turn, then was best of Harpist under severe handling. Harpist, fanned out with the group coming into the stretch and closed gamely. Lucky Patti made a strong move to come through on the inside entering the stretch turn, was pulled up sharply and appeared in danger of going down when Miss Shiloh came over, then closed well when back in stride. Rugene, set a fast early pace, tired. Princess June was never a strong factor. Miss Shiloh was disqualified and placed third as a result of a foul claimed against her by the rider of Lucky Patti.

WINNER—Owned by J Glennon, trained by W. D. Thomas.

Blue Whiz Kid was quickly sent to a clear lead, increased the advantage under intermittent pressure and held on gamely in the drive. Guarnerius followed in closest but could not get to the winner. Turnesa turned in an even effort. Penong could not threaten any part of the way. Petite Donna showed little. Player's Guide fell.

WINNER—Owned by J. H. Moss, trained by W. F. Parks.

Jimmy Gibbons, alertly handled to show in front at the break, relinquished the lead briefly to Beetlebomb and Miss Judex while allowing the speed to run out, then came again in the stretch to be drawing away at the end. Miss Judex improved position steadily down the backstretch, reached the lead at the furlong marker, then could not stay with the winner. Unabridged turned in a strong performance. Bettlebomb had nothing left after the rally in the half mile grounds. Shifting Peace was outrun.

Elsie M., in closest attendance to Partition early, saved ground to move to that one in the early stretch and outgamed him the final strides. Partition established a clear lead under pressure, then had no excuse. All-Right found best rounding the stretch turn and closed strongly. Model Home was out of it early and appeared to want more distance. Others were outrun.

Sassy Shirl, under a hustling ride from the break, saved ground while clear and responded to an energetic ride through the stretch. Songai moved up on the outside when Weatherman made his move, was between the latter and the winner coming into the stretch and closed resolutely. Weatherman was bumped by Mistambo in the first turn, regained stride in the backstretch, circled the field for the drive but had little left. Mistambo bore out in the turn into Weatherman, then went back in stride showed an even late effort. Gain A Foot, in closest pursuit of the winner early, hung in the stretch. Mr. Fixit was finished early.

Cross Bun Wins Fairgo Feature, Wagering Tops 1952 Mark

Mrs. Saportas Is Winner Of Trainer Prize

Victor Disqualified, Young Is Suspended; Bets Up 2.4 Per Cent

The curtain was lowered on the Cumberland Fair Association's 29th annual racing meet yesterday at Fairgo where Cross Bun, a three-year-old filly owned by R. R. McClarin and ridden by Mike Sorrentino, defeated Skin Junior, the favorite, by three lengths to win the Cumberland Day Purse, feature event on the Getaway Day card.

A gathering estimated at 5,500 persons wagered $228,959 on the eight races and upped the mutuel handle for the ten days to $1,935,231, which was $45,477 or 2.4 per cent better than the 1952 mark of $1,889,754. Last year's 10-day handle, incidentally, was the lowest recorded here in nine years.

This year's total also bettered the 1950 handle by $30,307. Betting in 1949 and 1951 exceeded the two million dollar mark.

Winner Is Disqualified

The grand finale of 1953 was marked by the disqualification of a winning horse and also the suspension of a rider. This occurred in the second race which Miss Shiloh had won. Raymond Drury on Lucky Patti, which finished third, filed an objection with the stewards against Fred Young on Miss Shiloh and the officials disqualified Miss Shiloh, dropped her into third place, for interfering with Lucky Patti.

The stewards later announced that Young was suspended for ten days for rough riding, effective June 25 through July 6. The ruling holds good on all other tracks.

Mrs. George A. Saportas, Jr., of Monkton, Md., clinched the trainers' prize for the second straight year when Sassy Shirl, a 5 to 1 shot, captured the sixth race — Frostburg Purse — and returned $12.80. The "Babe" saddled her eighth and final winner when Cross Bun took the main event and the "Queen of the Half Milers" received a double reward at the conclusion.

Gets Double Reward

Mayor Roy W. Eves presented the Ward N. Hauger Jewelry Company's gold wrist watch to Mrs. Saportas for saddling the winner of the Cumberland Day Purse and then Miss Carolyn Deck, "Miss Western Maryland of 1953" gave the "Babe" the Harvey Jewelry Company trophy for leading the trainers with 48 points, ten more than were registered by William D. Thomas of Radnor, Pa. Miss Deck also presented Mike Sorrentino, the top jockey who rode 18 winners and scored 124 points, with the Harvey Jewelry Company gold wrist watch and planted a kiss on the rider's cheek.

Jimmy Fitzgerald, aboard Star Child, filed an objection against Eugene Dosher on Skin Junior in the seventh race but the stewards disallowed the claim of foul. Skin Junior finished second and Star Child third.

The daily double on Getaway Day was worth $29 to those who held the winning combination of Vojean (5) and Harpist (1). The double pool was $25,512.

Best payoff on the final day was posted when Elsie M., won the fifth and returned $15.60. Sassy Shirl's payoff in the sixth was $12.80 while Croton Boy bagged the $10 finale.

Only two favorites registered and the top choices wound up the meet with a 36.3 per cent record. Twenty-nine of the 80 first choices won in ten days.

Bauer Is Injured

Jockey Lamar Bauer was injured during the running of the third race when Players Guide went down near the club house, tossed the rider, leaped over the fence and ran outside the track until captured. Bauer has a possible broken left hand. X-rays will be taken to determine the extent of his injuries.

Tommy Mont Is Offered Grid Contract By Mexican School

Former Cumberlander Has Not Made Up Mind

COLLEGE PARK, Md., June 24 (AP)—Tommy Mont, University of Maryland backfield coach, said tonight he had been offered "a very attractive contract" to become head football coach at National Polytechnic Institute in Mexico City.

"I have not made up my mind what to do yet," Mont said. "I want to emphasize, though, that I've been very happy here at my old school. I may decide before the end of this week."

Mont did not disclose the terms of the offer, but said he could have a three or five-year contract if he desired.

The former star quarterback at Maryland in 1941 and 1942 said he went to Mexico City over the week end to study the situation.

Mont said he was "amazed" by the football setup in Mexico. He said Mexico City has a new stadium which seats 120,000 spectators. "I've seen nothing to compare with it in this country," he said.

While there, Mont observed two workouts by the Polytechnic team.

TOMMY MONT

"They're not as big as we are," he said, "but they're wild about football. That's all they live for."

Mont, former gridder with the Washington Redskins, said he was surprised to find the Mexicans using the same Split-T formation which Maryland has used to become one of the grid powers in the United States.

Tigers Pin Back Athletics' Ears

Four Runs In Opener Sink Philly Team, 6-3

PHILADELPHIA, June 24 (AP)—The lowly Detroit Tigers pinned back the ears of the almost as lowly Philadelphia Athletics for the second straight time tonight 6-3 as winner Ned Garver surv'ved a three-run Philadelphia flurry in the eighth inning. Steve Souchock's two-run homer headed up a four-run Tiger rally in the first.

The four Detroit runs in the first came on singles Harvey Kuenn, Johnny Pesky and Bob Neiman plus a long outfield fly by Walt Dropo and Souchock's homer—his third of the season. Pesky's single scored Kuenn and Dropo's flyout brought in Pesky after the catch, while Nieman romped home ahead of Souchock.

WINNER—Owned by L. Delloso, trained by E. R. Myers.
Miss Shiloh, steadied while not far off the early pace of Rugene, took the lead from that one under pressure, bore in sharply against Lucky Patti in the stretch turn, then was best of Harpist under severe handling. Harpist, fanned out with the group coming into the stretch and closed gamely. Lucky Patti made a strong move to come through on the inside entering the stretch turn, was pulled up sharply and appeared in danger of going down when Miss Shiloh came over, then closed well when back in stride. Rugene, set a fast early pace, tired. Princess June was never a strong factor. Miss Shiloh was disqualified and placed third as a result of a foul claimed against her by the rider of Lucky Patti.

Turnesa turned in an even effort. Penong could not threaten any part of the way. Petite Donna showed little. Player's Guide fell.

Jimmy Gibbons, alertly handled to show in front at the break, relinquished the lead briefly to Beetlebomb and Miss Judex while allowing the speed to run out, then came again in the stretch to be drawing away at the end. Miss Judex improved position steadily down the backstretch, reached the lead at the furlong marker, then could not stay with the winner. Unabridged turned in a strong performance. Bettlebomb had nothing left after the rally in the half mile grounds. Shifting Peace was outrun.

Elsie M., in closest attendance to Partition early, saved ground to move to that one in the early stretch and outgamed him the final strides. Partition established a clear lead under pressure, then had no excuse. All-Right found best rounding the stretch turn and closed strongly. Model Home was out of it early and appeared to want more distance. Others were outrun.

Sassy Shirl, under a hustling ride from the break, saved ground while clear and responded to an energetic ride through the stretch. Songai moved up on the outside when Weatherman made his move, was between the latter and the winner coming into the stretch and closed resolutely. Weatherman was bumped by Mistambo in the first turn, regained stride in the backstretch, circled the field for the drive but had little left. Mistambo bore out in the turn into Weatherman, then went back in stride showed an even late effort. Gain A Foot, in closest pursuit of the winner early, hung in the stretch. Mr. Fixit was finished early.

Cross Bun took the lead at once, rallied when pressed through the stretch and was fully extended for the victory. Skin Junior was sent into a contending position in the backstretch but could not challenge the winner. Star Child, in a runner up position while on the outside before going three furlongs, had little left when called on. Penny Achance tired. Direct Tint was not a factor.

Croton Boy, steadied and under light restraint early, responded when let out a notch to circle the field nearing the stretch turn and was going away at the end. Pale Hose Hand New York Yanks Another Defeat

Elliott And Minoso Star In 8-4 Victory

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP) — The hustling Chicago White Sox, refusing to be awed by the huge New York Yankee lead, knocked off the world champs for the second day in a row today 8-4, with a five-run burst in the first inning.

This was Chicago's eighth straight victory at Yankee Stadium. Their last defeat in the park was last July 19. They've won all five this season and are the only club in the league with a season edge, 6-4, on New York. It was the Yanks' third straight defeat, their longest losing streak of the year.

Bob Elliott's triple with the bases loaded was the big blow in the first and Minnie Minoso provided the other Sox runs with a two-run homer and scoring single in the later innings.

Saul Rogovin, breaking a personal five-game losing string, allowed three-hit ball for seven innings but needed help from Harry Dorish in the ninth after Gene Woodling and Hank Bauer hit home runs.

Rogovin didn't allow a hit until Irv Noren singled with one gone in the fourth. Yogi Berra's double scored him from second where he had advanced on Rogovin's wild throw attempting a pickoff.

Willie Miranda, Cuban shortstop filling in for the injured Phil Rizzuto, celebrated his return to the Yank lineup by hitting the first home run of his major league career in the fifth.

Indians Get 17 Hits As Wynn Scores, 13-9

BOSTON, June 24 (AP)—After spotting the Boston Red Sox three runs in the first inning, Cleveland's rebounding Indians surged from behind for a 13-9 victory today by generating 17 hits. Dale Mitchell, Bob Avila and Jim Hegan each connected thrice to pull the game out of the fire for starting pitcher Early Wynn.

The Cleveland righthander gave the Red Sox all but one of their 14 hits and was lashed for a three-run homer by Del Wilber in the seventh inning. Bob Lemon and Bob Hooper had to be called upon to bolster Wynn and Lemon encountered serious trouble in the ninth.

The Indians drove starter Marv Grissom to cover with a four-runs blasting in the second session and then lacerated Hershel Freeman and Ben Flowers for five runs in the third.

Cubs Drop Tenth Straight Decision To Phillies, 8-2

Drews Hurls Shutout Ball Until 9th Frame

CHICAGO, June 24 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs today dropped their 10th straight decision to the Philadelphia Phils this season, 8-2, as Karl Drews blanked the Bruins until the ninth with a five-hit performance.

The Phils unleashed a 12-hit attack against the Cubs for the second straight day. It was sparked by Connie Ryan's triple and a pair of doubles which drove across three runs.

Drews, who now has a 5-5 record, held the Cubs scoreless until George Metkovich's single, two walks, a fly-out and an error pushed across Chicago's two markers in the ninth.

Seixas, Rosewall Win In England

Eighth Seeded Morea Loses At Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England, June 24 (AP) — American and Australian followers of the "big" game school of sizzling serves, sock and rock tennis—Rosewall, Hoad, Seixas, Mulloy and Rose—had an iron grip on Wimbledon today.

They are all ranked and after three days of play only one seed has failed to sprout. Eighth-ranked Enrique Morea of Argentina lost today to Ian Ayre, another charger from Australia, 6-8, 6-4, 11-9, 6-2.

Seeded players didn't have a serene day of it by any means and most of them needed their full repetoire. Ken Rosewall, No. 1 seeded Australian, dropped a set before closing out Robert Abdesselam of France, 6-3, 6-1, 4-6, 6-2.

Philadelphia's Vic Seixas and Wladyslaw Skonecki, a self-exiled Pole who picked London as his new hometown, tied into each other in a real slugging match. Seixas won 6-2, 6-2, 7-5, but it certainly wasn't as easy as it sounds.

Hank Sauer Sidelined With Fractured Finger

CHICAGO, June 24 (AP) — Hank Sauer, the Chicago Cubs' slugging outfielder and the National League's most valuable player, has been sidelined with a fractured ring finger on his right hand.

Sauer suffered the injury during a pepper game yesterday, but the fracture was not discovered until X-rays were taken shortly after noon today.

This is the second finger fracture for Sauer this year. He hit 37 home runs and batted in 121 runs last season. Last March 16, he fractured the little finger on his right hand at Fullerton, Calif., during an exhibition game against the Los Angeles Angels.

Hogan Posts 69 To Amaze Scots

Bantam Ben Tries Out Course At Carnoustie

DUNDEE, Scotland, June 24 (AP)—Bantam Ben Hogan today took one look at the tough Carnoustie golf course where the British Open will be played and then went out and shot a 69.

Canny, golf-wise Scots were amazed and the little American master of the links was surprised when told that 70 had never been broken in championship play over the 7,200-yard course.

Carnoustie has no accepted par. By American figures it should play about 37-37—74. Hogan today had a 34-35—69. Weather varies too much over this seaside links to permit the establishment of a definite par.

Hogan who has captured about every golf title in the United States for which he is eligible is here warming up for the British Open starting July 6.

Ben said he found the putting very easy.

He went around with American Amateur Frank Stranahan of Toledo, twice British amateur champion. Stranahan had a 37-37—74.

Conditions were ideal with only a slight breeze.

Pale Hose Hand New York Yanks Another Defeat

Elliott And Minoso Star In 8-4 Victory

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP) — The hustling Chicago White Sox, refusing to be awed by the huge New York Yankee lead, knocked off the world champs for the second day in a row today 8-4, with a five-run burst in the first inning.

This was Chicago's eighth straight victory at Yankee Stadium. Their last defeat in the park was last July 19. They've won all five this season and are the only club in the league with a season edge, 6-4, on New York. It was the Yanks' third straight defeat, their longest losing streak of the year.

Bob Elliott's triple with the bases loaded was the big blow in the first and Minnie Minoso provided the other Sox runs with a two-run homer and scoring single in the later innings.

Saul Rogovin, breaking a personal five-game losing string, allowed three-hit ball for seven innings but needed help from Harry Dorish in the ninth after Gene Woodling and Hank Bauer hit home runs.

Rogovin didn't allow a hit until Irv Noren singled with one gone in the fourth. Yogi Berra's double scored him from second where he had advanced on Rogovin's wild throw attempting a pickoff.

Willie Miranda, Cuban shortstop filling in for the injured Phil Rizzuto, celebrated his return to the Yank lineup by hitting the first home run of his major league career in the fifth.

Indians Get 17 Hits As Wynn Scores, 13-9

BOSTON, June 24 (AP)—After spotting the Boston Red Sox three runs in the first inning, Cleveland's rebounding Indians surged from behind for a 13-9 victory today by generating 17 hits. Dale Mitchell, Bob Avila and Jim Hegan each connected thrice to pull the game out of the fire for starting pitcher Early Wynn.

The Cleveland righthander gave the Red Sox all but one of their 14 hits and was lashed for a three-run homer by Del Wilber in the seventh inning. Bob Lemon and Bob Hooper had to be called upon to bolster Wynn and Lemon encountered serious trouble in the ninth.

The Indians drove starter Marv Grissom to cover with a four-runs blasting in the second session and then lacerated Hershel Freeman and Ben Flowers for five runs in the third.

Cubs Drop Tenth Straight Decision To Phillies, 8-2

Drews Hurls Shutout Ball Until 9th Frame

CHICAGO, June 24 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs today dropped their 10th straight decision to the Philadelphia Phils this season, 8-2, as Karl Drews blanked the Bruins until the ninth with a five-hit performance.

The Phils unleashed a 12-hit attack against the Cubs for the second straight day. It was sparked by Connie Ryan's triple and a pair of doubles which drove across three runs.

Drews, who now has a 5-5 record, held the Cubs scoreless until George Metkovich's single, two walks, a fly-out and an error pushed across Chicago's two markers in the ninth.

Seixas, Rosewall Win In England

Eighth Seeded Morea Loses At Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England, June 24 (AP) — American and Australian followers of the "big" game school of sizzling serves, sock and rock tennis—Rosewall, Hoad, Seixas, Mulloy and Rose—had an iron grip on Wimbledon today.

They are all ranked and after three days of play only one seed has failed to sprout. Eighth-ranked Enrique Morea of Argentina lost today to Ian Ayre, another charger from Australia, 6-8, 6-4, 11-9, 6-2.

Seeded players didn't have a serene day of it by any means and most of them needed their full repetoire. Ken Rosewall, No. 1 seeded Australian, dropped a set before closing out Robert Abdesselam of France, 6-3, 6-1, 4-6, 6-2.

Philadelphia's Vic Seixas and Wladyslaw Skonecki, a self-exiled Pole who picked London as his new hometown, tied into each other in a real slugging match. Seixas won 6-2, 6-2, 7-5, but it certainly wasn't as easy as it sounds.

Hank Sauer Sidelined With Fractured Finger

CHICAGO, June 24 (AP) — Hank Sauer, the Chicago Cubs' slugging outfielder and the National League's most valuable player, has been sidelined with a fractured ring finger on his right hand.

Sauer suffered the injury during a pepper game yesterday, but the fracture was not discovered until X-rays were taken shortly after noon today.

This is the second finger fracture for Sauer this year. He hit 37 home runs and batted in 121 runs last season. Last March 16, he fractured the little finger on his right hand at Fullerton, Calif., during an exhibition game against the Los Angeles Angels.

Hogan Posts 69 To Amaze Scots

Bantam Ben Tries Out Course At Carnoustie

DUNDEE, Scotland, June 24 (AP)—Bantam Ben Hogan today took one look at the tough Carnoustie golf course where the British Open will be played and then went out and shot a 69.

Canny, golf-wise Scots were amazed and the little American master of the links was surprised when told that 70 had never been broken in championship play over the 7,200-yard course.

Carnoustie has no accepted par. By American figures it should play about 37-37—74. Hogan today had a 34-35—69. Weather varies too much over this seaside links to permit the establishment of a definite par.

Hogan who has captured about every golf title in the United States for which he is eligible is here warming up for the British Open starting July 6.

Ben said he found the putting very easy.

He went around with American Amateur Frank Stranahan of Toledo, twice British amateur champion. Stranahan had a 37-37—74.

Conditions were ideal with only a slight breeze.

St. Louis Cards Plan To Expand "Farm" System

Mathes To Direct Building Campaign

By ED WILKS

ST. LOUIS, June 24 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, loaded with enthusiasm and brewery cash, are out to make the fabulous farm club system of the Branch Rickey era look "like a country store."

The decision to expand the Card's far-flung present day farm system—numbering 17 clubs from California to Ontario—was put into the record today by August A. Busch Jr., the new and baseball-happy president of the National League club, after a four-hour session with his staff.

Busch, head of the Anheuser-Busch Brewery, has paid out 4½ million dollars in buying the Cardinals and their ball park but he has decided he can't get a pennant with money alone.

Thus the new move to bolster the Card farm system conceived and broadened to 33 clubs by Rickey, the far-reaching baseball genius. From those clubs came the Musials, the Slaughters, the Hornsbys, the Roes, the Mizes, the Coopers, the Deans, the Marions and an avalanche of stars who made the Cards a flag contender year after year.

Farm Director Joe Mathes, placed in the driver's seat in this "build for the future" campaign, shows the enthusiasm of the Cardinal outlook.

Snead Is Favorite In Cleveland Golf

CLEVELAND, June 24 (AP)—The $15,000 Manakiki Open, Cleveland's first big time golf meet in seven years, starts tomorrow with Sam Snead a strong favorite to increase his already sizeable bankroll.

The four-day medal meet was added to the Professional Golf Association's tournament list this year, providing a stopover between the Inverness Open in Toledo and the PGA Championship in Birmingham, Mich. next week.

Despite a bad hand, Snead in two days of practice has pulverized the Manakiki Country Club's 6,651-yard, par 72 layout, frequently booming drives well over 300 yards.

NEW FEATURE IN WORK SHOES

Leather Insoles That Resist Perspiration

CHROME TANNED INSOLES
New combined process of mineral and vegetable tanning keeps insoles soft and pliable for smooth comfort underfoot.

VEGETABLE TANNED INSOLES
Usually curl and crack from perspiration damage. Shoes must be discarded long before the uppers are worn out.

CHROME TANNED INSOLES have been developed by an entirely new chrome-vegetable tanning process that prevents the insole from becoming brittle or cracking. Remaining soft and flexible, even after long hard wear, Wards insoles are both curl-proof and perspiration resistant. They will not shrink or dry out with age enabling your shoes to stand resoling many times. Now you can get greater wear and longer life from every pair of work shoes.

MILDEW RESISTANT UPPERS AND OUTSOLES are tanned to preserve the natural oils in leather. They retain their softness and pliability—an important factor for long wear and on-the-job working comfort.

COMFORT CURVE TOPS follow the natural lines of your ankle, help avoid uncomfortable binding—no need to lace your shoes only part way up.

Snead Is Favorite In Cleveland Golf

CLEVELAND, June 24 (AP)—The $15,000 Manakiki Open, Cleveland's first big time golf meet in seven years, starts tomorrow with Sam Snead a strong favorite to increase his already sizeable bankroll.

The four-day medal meet was added to the Professional Golf Association's tournament list this year, providing a stopover between the Inverness Open in Toledo and the PGA Championship in Birmingham, Mich. next week.

Despite a bad hand, Snead in two days of practice has pulverized the Manakiki Country Club's 6,651-yard, par 72 layout, frequently booming drives well over 300 yards.

NEW FEATURE IN WORK SHOES

Leather Insoles That Resist Perspiration

CHROME TANNED INSOLES
New combined process of mineral and vegetable tanning keeps insoles soft and pliable for smooth comfort underfoot.

VEGETABLE TANNED INSOLES
Usually curl and crack from perspiration damage. Shoes must be discarded long before the uppers are worn out.

CHROME TANNED INSOLES have been developed by an entirely new chrome-vegetable tanning process that prevents the insole from becoming brittle or cracking. Remaining soft and flexible, even after long hard wear, Wards insoles are both curl-proof and perspiration resistant. They will not shrink or dry out with age enabling your shoes to stand resoling many times. Now you can get greater wear and longer life from every pair of work shoes.

MILDEW RESISTANT UPPERS AND OUTSOLES are tanned to preserve the natural oils in leather. They retain their softness and pliability—an important factor for long wear and on-the-job working comfort.

COMFORT CURVE TOPS follow the natural lines of your ankle, help avoid uncomfortable binding—no need to lace your shoes only part way up.

INTRODUCTORY OFFER—SAVE $1 A PAIR

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, June 24—(INS)—Shelley Winters won't be going to Italy with Vittorio Gassman come fall. You can make as much or as little out of this as you wish.

Shelley has just signed to star in Elmer Rice's play, "The Winner," on Broadway, which opens Oct. 14. She goes to the Flamingo in Las Vegas, Aug. 13, and she's booked for two pictures at MGM—There's a second one after "Tennessee Champ."

Shelley is determined to make a go of her own career, and Vittorio is putting his career in Italy ahead of all else.

Now I've heard everything. An Italian film, "O. K. Nero," which opens in New York shortly, is a satire on Hollywood epics shot in Rome. Talk about biting the hand that feeds you.

There isn't a single lion in the picture, but there's a pool table, a football game, a jam session, and an amusement park called Lunas Parkus.

Ironically enough, the company used all the "Quo Vadis" sets. The star, Silvana Pampanini, is said to be the Marilyn Monroe of Italy. Remember, Pampanini wrote a magazine article saying that all American men were bores. Later she retracted it, saying she really didn't know enough American men to judge.

Guy Madison, whose career is zooming these days, was in the Crescendo Restaurant having dinner with his estranged wife, Gail Russell.

This break-up is very sad because Guy has never been in love with any other girl, nor she with any other man.

He has done everything possible to smooth out their tangled marital troubles. Some of their friends believe if Gail tries to do her part they will eventually reconcile.

At La Rue, Marjorie Weaver stopped by our table to tell me that she is back in motion pictures and very happy about it.

At the time Marjorie married Don Briggs, advertising executive, she retired from 20th Century-Fox where she made many successful motion pictures. Since her marriage, Marjorie has had two children, a boy 7½, and a girl, 5-years-old.

"Now I'm at Allied Artists," Marjorie told me, "Making 'Fighter Attack', with Sterling Hayden and your old friend, Joy Hodges. You don't know how good it is to be before the cameras once again."

Perc Westmore, Hollywood's famous cosmetician and hair stylist, leaves for Europe in mid-September to lecture under the auspices of the Hairdressers Guild. Perc will remain for three months.

His attractive wife, the former Ola Carroll, will see him off in New York and then return to Hollywood to run Westmore's beauty salon. Accompanying Perc is Manny Stoloff, manufacturer of beauty products.

Jack Durante, who was rushed to a hospital in New York with a perforated ulcer and is in serious condition, can get encouragement from Walter Lang. A week ago Walter's condition was very serious. Today he's convalescing.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Lina Romay and Jay Gould, III, have set their wedding date in September.

Greer Garson returned from Dallas and reported to MGM. Her husband, Buddy Fogelson, will arrive from Dallas in a few days to join her.

Dick Long, whose engagement to the Salinas celery heiress, Mary Briggs, was recently broken, is getting consolation from Lori Nelson.

Paula Raymond's engagement to Gregg Martin was the shortest on record. Last week she was given a ring; yesterday she gave it back. Trouble—he wanted her to give up her work and move to South America.

The French actress, Simone Mostenoy, who will marry Geordie Hormel's brother, Thomas, arrived here via TWA on Tuesday. Geordie is married to cute little Leslie Caron.

Richardo Montalban attended the 50th wedding anniversary of his parents in Mexico City. It was a beautiful religious ceremony with Ricardo and his two brothers serving as altar boys.

Lana Turner sends me a cable saying that she has no intention of making "The King's General"; that she would never discuss any picture without the approval of her studio.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

SRC Asks Bids For Project On Winchester Road

The State Roads Commission has asked bids for overhauling 3.8 miles of roads between Allegany Grove and Cresaptown.

The bids will be opened in Baltimore July 14. The contracts call for widening and resurfacing.

The main part of the work is on Maryland Route 53, which runs from U. S. 40 at Allegany Grove to U. S. 220 at Cresaptown—about 3½ miles. It is familiarly known in the area as the Winchester Road.

At the north end there is a spur which connects with Maryland Route 40 into Cumberland. At the south end there is another spur, Warrior's Run Road, offering an alternate connection with U. S. 220.

And they got Hildegarde right here . . . which would save them a lot of dough. But I don't figure it's a job for a singer. France's got to come up with something special, to hold its own.

Or maybe Dior could fly over. Or a classy guy like Charles Boyer, talking broken French. Or Battling Siki. Or Paul Muni or Capt. Dreyfuss . . . whichever one's available."

Comforted, now that the French Assembly had been shown the way out of its bog, the pundits stumbled into the night, all ejaculating, "He makes it all so simple."

"Lady Hamilton . . . You know, Nelson's mistress."

The news was too good to keep. Turning to the columnist on the other side of her she said, excitedly, "Byron Nelson's girl lived here."

Dwight D. Eisenhower, first president of the United States who ever tackled Jim Thorpe, is also the first chief executive who holds a plane pilot's license. He reached the White House during the 50th anniversary of the age of powered flight.

Eisenhower won his wings in 1939 when he was serving, as a major, under Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the Philippines. His license number is 93258.

During the Louisiana maneuvers of 1941, where Eisenhower made the reputation which won him a place in war planning, under Gen. Marshall, Ike spent much of his time in the air — keeping tab of the huge drill.

Eisenhower was checked out in an old PT-13, an open cockpit biplane with a top speed of 125 mph and a gross weight of about 2,600 pounds. Today's primary trainer has a top speed of better than 300, and grosses 7,000 pounds.

He is one of only three residents who have flown while in office. F. D. R. was the first, and that well known automobile tourist H. S. T., was the other. Ike will continue to make heavy use of the flying machine. Though there may be some doubts here and there in the Air Force, he's convinced it's here to stay.

Dwight D. Eisenhower, first president of the United States who ever tackled Jim Thorpe, is also the first chief executive who holds a plane pilot's license. He reached the White House during the 50th anniversary of the age of powered flight.

Eisenhower won his wings in 1939 when he was serving, as a major, under Gen. Douglas MacArthur in the Philippines. His license number is 93258.

During the Louisiana maneuvers of 1941, where Eisenhower made the reputation which won him a place in war planning, under Gen. Marshall, Ike spent much of his time in the air — keeping tab of the huge drill.

Eisenhower was checked out in an old PT-13, an open cockpit biplane with a top speed of 125 mph and a gross weight of about 2,600 pounds. Today's primary trainer has a top speed of better than 300, and grosses 7,000 pounds.

He is one of only three residents who have flown while in office. F. D. R. was the first, and that well known automobile tourist H. S. T., was the other. Ike will continue to make heavy use of the flying machine. Though there may be some doubts here and there in the Air Force, he's convinced it's here to stay.

LENGTH BEATS STRENGTH

IT IS always startling, to a veteran player, to note the differences with which newcomers at the game grasp the importance of certain principles. Some seem to be able to figure out the operating of factors never explained to them, whereas most neophytes would grasp the idea only through extensive experience and observation of what happens when such an element is considered soundly or disregarded. One of those principles applies to a generally strong hand opposite a weak one with great suit length; the latter generally gets better results as declarer because it has a good dummy instead of a worthless one opposite it.

♠ 4 ♥ 3 ♦ 10 9 8 5 3 2 ♣ 8 7 4 3 2	N W E S	♠ A Q 7 2 ♥ A K J 4 ♦ A Q J ♣ A 9

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South

Many players would have preferred opening East's atomic hand with 2-Spades, and after West's 2-No Trumps would have bid 3-Hearts. A good player in the West then would have bid 4-Diamonds, East 4-No Trumps in its natural sense, West 5-Clubs and East then 5-Diamonds. A top-notcher in the West should have realized his hand was by no means trickless if played at one of its suits with East's big hand opposite, and as a consequence the resultant 5-Diamonds would have given the pair an easy game.

West was afraid to act over the 3-No Trumps, however, feeling that the big bid might indicate a hand containing a single solid suit with side stoppers. So he feared action by him would merely compel East to get higher and require more than nine tricks for game.

Clearer thinking should have shown the fallacy of that, even though West had not been playing bridge very long. East, unless completely daft, would not bid 3-No Trumps on that kind of a hand if his big suit were a major. Hence, either East had a big minor in that type of holding, or else a hand like he actually held. West should have shown his suits over the 3-No Trumps. A diamond game would have resulted instead of a two trick set when East could find no way to take more than seven tricks in No Trumps.

If East sees fit to open with 2-Spades, South bids 3-Hearts and the other two players pass, what should East do?

Bronk To Retire As Hopkins Head

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP)—Dr. Detlev W. Bronk yesterday was elected president of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research and, it was announced, he will retire as president of Johns Hopkins University.

A spokesman for the Institute said Bronk is expected to leave Johns Hopkins after he winds up his affairs there. It was indicated this will probably be some time before the end of the year.

However, Bronk will continue as a trustee of Johns Hopkins, the spokesman added.

Bronk's election as president of the Institute took place at a special meeting of the Institute's Board of Trustees.

Shortly after the Institute announced his election, Bronk said "it was only with great reluctance that I have been persuaded to accept my new post."

"I have done so," he added, "because it will provide unusual opportunities to devote much of my time to research, for which I have been trained, while developing a unique international institution for the furtherance of science and for the advanced training of scientific investigators.

"In addition to my keen desire to engage personally in research, I feel that my experience places an especial responsibility on me to participate actively in scientific undertakings of broad human and national value."

Although Guinea fowl have been domesticated for 2,000 years, it is difficult to distinguish varieties from those in the wild state.

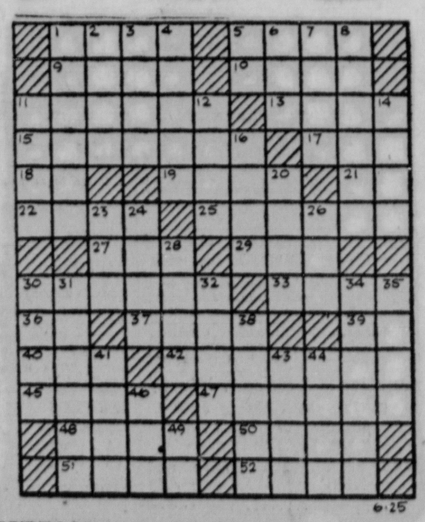
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

If East sees fit to open with 2-Spades, South bids 3-Hearts and the other two players pass, what should East do?

Bronk To Retire As Hopkins Head

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP)—Dr. Detlev W. Bronk yesterday was elected president of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research and, it was announced, he will retire as president of Johns Hopkins University.

A spokesman for the Institute said Bronk is expected to leave Johns Hopkins after he winds up his affairs there. It was indicated this will probably be some time before the end of the year.

However, Bronk will continue as a trustee of Johns Hopkins, the spokesman added.

Bronk's election as president of the Institute took place at a special meeting of the Institute's Board of Trustees.

Shortly after the Institute announced his election, Bronk said "it was only with great reluctance that I have been persuaded to accept my new post."

"I have done so," he added, "because it will provide unusual opportunities to devote much of my time to research, for which I have been trained, while developing a unique international institution for the furtherance of science and for the advanced training of scientific investigators.

"In addition to my keen desire to engage personally in research, I feel that my experience places an especial responsibility on me to participate actively in scientific undertakings of broad human and national value."

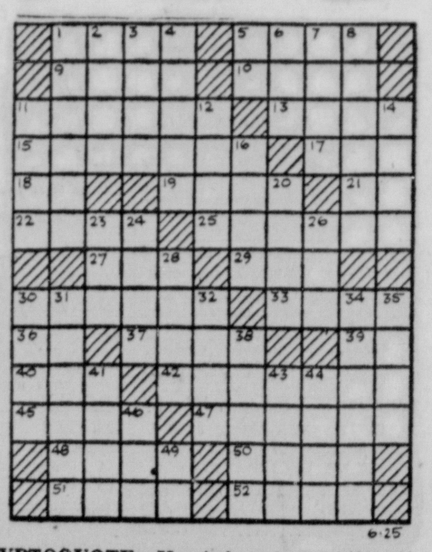
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

K N W G Y V S M J D Y L S K W S C G B L
Ż G L K L Z C H P D G C N L C L W K N L G ' H
H W E L — P W G F B N W G.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: GAY HOPE IS THEIRS, BY FANCY FED, LESS PLEASING WHEN POSSESSED—GRAY.

Bank Debits Increasing

Bank debits to individual accounts in Cumberland increased during the first four months of 1953 over the same period last year, the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond reports.

Totals for the first four months showed $101,384,000 as compared to $98,847,000 the same period last year. However, debits for April this year declined, $25,484,000 reported compared with $26,893 in April of 1952.

Building permits increased both for April and the first four months of the year.

Four month figures show $187,900 this year compared to 93,650 in 1952. In April, permit figures were $57,075 against $30,550 in April, 1952.

Scores of cities and towns can say, "George Washington slept here," because the Father of his Country was the most widely traveled American official of his age.

Market Drifts Lower With Some Issues Off Sharply

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP) — The Stock Market drifted lower today, with a few issues dropping sharply because of unfavorable corporate news.

It was the first decline since the market tested its lows of the year more than a week ago.

Share prices were generally higher at the start, but soon turned mixed. Then a slow decline set in.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 40 cents at $106.60. The industrial average was off 50 cents to $137.60, the rail average down 60 cents to $86.60 and the utility average up 10 cents to $51.10.

Volume totaled 1,030,000. Yesterday, 1,080,000 shares were traded in a strong market.

Pacific Western Oil provided the fireworks. It dropped nearly 5 points before recovering part of the loss to close at 40, down 3⅝. It was the most active issue of the day, with 84,300 shares changing hands.

Reason for the stock's action was a company announcement that its new well in Arabia had struck water. The company said drilling was continuing, but that it might be necessary to revise estimates on the size of the field.

American Smelting and Refining lost 2⅛ points at 31¾ on news that the dividend had been reduced. Kennecott, Anaconda and Phelps Dodge also declined, the last by 1¼ points.

Among the few stocks showing persistent strength was Aluminum, Ltd., which rose ¾ to 47¼.

Declining stocks included U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Montgomery Ward, Federated Department Stores, Boeing, Admiral, American Telephone, Westinghouse, American Can, Atlantic Coast Line, Southern Pacific, Sinclair, United Air Lines and Johns-Manville.

Up were Virginian Railway, Norfolk & Western, Goodrich, U. S. Rubber, National Distillers, Consolidated Edison, Commonwealth Edison, Dow Chemical, Union Carbide, Cities Service, Erie and General Foods.

Local Girl Wins Top Post At Girls State

Peggy Spioch To Be Attorney General

Peggy Lou Spioch, 17-year-old daughter of State Police Trooper First Class and Mrs. A. M. Spioch, 507 Patterson Avenue, was elected attorney general of Girls State in Annapolis yesterday.

PEGGY SPIOCH

Peggy, a junior at Ursuline Academy, became the first local girl to win a state office at Girls State.

She attended SS. Peter and Paul Parochial School before entering Ursuline, where she is active in the Glee Club and on the basketball team.

During summers, she serves as a unit councilor at Girl Scout camp.

The local girl is planning either a nursing or teaching career following graduation from the local academy.

Her father is a member of the Maryland State Police, stationed at the LaVale barracks. Her mother, Mrs. Margaret Spioch, is president of the local Girl Scout Council.

Elect State Officials

Some 100 Maryland high school girls voted on top state officials and promptly handed the new governor several controversial pieces of legislation to sign.

The girls, representatives at the annual Girls' State in the Statehouse, elected Judy Fairall, a Laurel high school junior, as governor over Jayne Eyerman of Silver Spring.

Alice Love of Silver Spring won the comptroller's post from Virginia Peters of Sudlersville and Peggy Spioch of Cumberland was elected attorney general, beating out Martha Campbell of Oxon Hill.

Ask Pay Increases

Shortly after the election, the "senators" and "delegates" went into a session which produced heated discussion on several statewide matters.

One of the first bills passed by the youthful legislature called for raising school teachers' salaries and the pay of state employes.

After more debate the legislators passed a bill giving each delegate two scholarships to the University of Maryland, a measure patterned after one vetoed by Gov. McKeldin earlier this year after passage by the grown-up General Assembly.

Another bill approved on the heels of a state controversy called for skimmed milk to be plainly marked and to be sold only as labeled.

To End Saturday

The only bill provoking no near hair pulling was one calling for establishment of more playgrounds throughout Maryland.

Tomorrow the girls will delve into city politics after creating governmental bodies via Anne Arundel County voting machines. Then, on Friday, they will consider county matters.

The session ends Saturday after a cleanup of unfinished business.

State Sen. Preston (D-Balto 5th) and Del. Bloom (D-Washington) were on hand to assist the girls in the two houses of the mock legislature today.

Representatives of city and county governments will help them today and Friday.

Senate Group Allots $950,000 For Flood Work

$50,000 Is Cut From House Figure

An economy minded Senate appropriations committee yesterday recommended that $950,000 be alloted to the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control project during the fiscal year which begins July 1.

The allotment represents a $50,000 cut from the $1,000,000 voted by the House for the project late in May.

Escaping the committee's axe entirely was channel and harbor work in Baltimore, which received an allotment of $425,000, the same as recommended by the House.

Eliminate Some Jobs

A number of other area projects were left out in the cold. They include work in the Anacostia River at Washington, for which $500,000 had been alloted; Norfolk harbor, Craney Island disposal area, $700,000, and Quimby Creek, Va., $25,000.

The local appropriation would bring the amount which the government has spent or committed on the $17,000,000 project to about the $5½ million mark.

The first two phases of the project, which were designed to provide the city with a first class storm sewer system, were completed late in 1951 at a cost of about $2,200,000.

The work began to pay dividends immediately, with the huge conduits carrying off water from cloudbursts with ease.

Two Phases Underway

Early in February of 1952, the second phase of the work was begun when the E. J. Albrecht Company, Chicago, was awarded a contract for dredging and paving the channel of Wills Creek from the Narrows to the Western Maryland bridge at Baltimore Street. The work is now near the halfway mark.

The same firm early in March was awarded an $855,000 contract for the fourth phase, the construction of the Industrial Dam across the Potomac River.

The dam is designed to provide water for cooling purposes at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Plant and the River Plant of the Potomac Edison Company.

Bridges Planned

The scope of the already huge Flood Control project was increased when the City of Cumberland and roads officials of Maryland and West Virginia decided to build a new bridge across the Potomac River here on abutments provided during construction of the dam.

The modern bridge will replace Blue Bridge and will cross the river at Riverside Park.

Four other bridges are to be replaced in connection with the job. They include Valley, Market and Baltimore Street bridges in Cumberland, and the Western Maryland Railway bridge at Baltimore Street. No federal funds are to be spent on the bridge jobs.

Charles M. See, this city, has been reelected president of the Alumni Association of the Maryland School for the Blind.

Miss Erna S. Moore, Gilmore, and Edwin M. Horchler, this city, were named vice presidents.

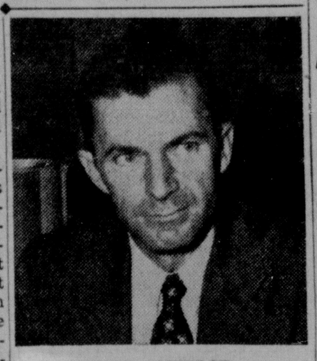
Potomac Edison Appoints Area Industrial Promoter



B. G. ATWOOD

B. G. Atwood has been appointed Area Development Representative for the Potomac Edison System. As the title indicates, he will interest himself in those things concerned with the economic and industrial growth of this area.

In cooperation with others, especially local and state Chambers of Commerce, attention will be centered on helping bring in new industries and in assisting in the development of local industry. Vacant industrial buildings often attract industry. They can be listed with the nearest district manager of the Potomac Edison System, for Atwood's attention. Prospects developed will be referred to the owner for negotiation.

Atwood's appointment further enlarges these activities of the Potomac Edison System, which have been carried on for many years. In his work Atwood will report to PE's General Commercial Manager S. S. Bradford.

Atwood has had working experience with several phases of the Company's operation, well fitting him for his new office. He started with PE in 1937 in the Hagerstown District as a civil engineer. In later years he held the posts of transmission engineer for PE and transportation engineer for the Blue Ridge Bus Lines. In '51 he took over the duties of general passenger agent for Blue Ridge—a post somewhat similar to his new position as it called for the development of transportation business within company-served territory.

A graduate of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Atwood has been active in civic and community affairs, serving on various church boards and Community Chest posts.

Resident To Help Crippled Grandson On Radio Program

A local woman will appear on a radio program July 2 in New York City to help her eight-year-old crippled grandson.

Mrs. James P. Mellon, 722 Brookfield Avenue, received the invitation from the American Broadcasting Company yesterday and will appear on "Turn To A Friend," an audience participation program broadcast each morning.

She is appearing for her daughter, Mrs. Danis Sanikos of McKeesport, Pa., formerly of here, who wrote the letter to the program asking for help for her son, Danis Jr. The youngster was born with a crippling disease, and since Mrs. Sanikos is unable to attend the program, Mrs. Mellon will substitute for her.

Mrs. Mellon will leave here for New York July 1 accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Sadie Weaverling, Oldtown Road.

When she appears on the program, she will tell her story, and a "friend" from the audience will answer questions to earn money for the braces and a walker needed by young Danis.

The program, one of the "human" interest quiz programs of ABC, will be heard on one of the local radio stations.

State Firemen Open Convention At Ocean City

Cumberland Bids For 1954 Session

OCEAN CITY, Md., June 24 (AP)—The vanguard of an expected 2,000 of Maryland's volunteer firemen came early to Ocean City today for the opening formalities of the 61st annual convention of their state association.

Their business sessions, speeches on the technicalities of fighting fires, parties, and political pep talking will continue through Thursday and come to a climax with the annual parade late Friday afternoon.

William A. Chenoweth of Pikesville so far stands unopposed for the presidency in the annual election, the only contest in sight being between James N. Jarman of Ocean City and John W. Smith of Annapolis for first vice-president.

One of the questions to be settled Thursday is whether the 1954 convention will be held in Ocean City or Cumberland.

The rush to register for the annual session was so great today that about 900 firemen from 152 companies had signed in by noon, two hours before the opening convention session.

2,000 To Register

Convention officials expected to have the names of another 1,100 delegates and 50 more companies before the day was over.

The presence of two potential candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor in next year's elections lent a political flavor to the gathering.

On the list of speakers were State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes and Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland.

Speakers on technical subjects included Don Dunnington, field director of the Maryland Ambulance and Rescue Association; Battalion Chief A. M. Grunwell of the Washington, D. C., Fire Department; Chief Frank R. Pollack of the Baltimore Fire Department's salvage squad, and W. Thomas Owens, senior instructor of fire service extension at the University of Maryland.

Tonight's program included a fireworks display on the beach and the annual Firemen's Ball.

Area Men Candidates

Chenoweth's candidacy for president will be placed before the convention Thursday when the nominating committee makes its report.

Others named who so far have no opposition include T. C. Gardner of Riverdale Heights for second vice-president; Floyd B. Heimer of Branchville for secretary; William A. Wilson of Midland and John S. Pritchard of Grantsville for trustees; and the Rev. James W. Minter of Hereford for Chaplain.

The Ocean City school yard overflowed with all kinds of fire fighting and communications equipment for the volunteers to inspect.

The Ladies Auxiliary held separate meetings after the joint session which opened the convention.

Jury Rules Out Mrs. Kalbaugh's Damage Plea

Decides Husband Was Negligent

Mrs. Genevieve Yvonne Kalbaugh, widowed mother of three small children, failed in her effort to win sizable money damages for the traffic death of her husband, Charles Lee Kalbaugh, when an Allegany County Circuit Court jury ruled that Kalbaugh was guilty of contributory negligence in riding in a car knowing that the driver was under the influence of alcohol.

Kalbaugh was one of five young Tri-Towns men who were killed in a crash along McMullen Highway near Pinto last August 31. Only one man, James F. Thompson, among six riding in the car survived. Among the other dead were Timothy M. Gilmore, the driver, and Richard Moran, the owner.

Deliberates 90 Minutes

The jury, on which Oscar Gurley served as foreman, returned its verdict shortly before 6 p. m. yesterday after deliberating nearly 90 minutes.

Four issues were presented the jury of nine men and three women for decision. Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris, who presided at the two-day trial, instructed the jury that a finding of contributory negligence on the part of Kalbaugh in riding in the car would bar his widow's right to damages even if the defendants also were guilty of negligence.

In the first issue, the jury decided that Gilmore, a former state trooper, was guilty of negligence in driving Moran's car along McMullen Highway on the Sunday morning just before last Labor Day.

Gilmore was acting as the agent of Moran in driving the car, the jury ruled in the second issue. The jury's only negative response to an issue came on the third one when the decision was that Lewis Howard Allwine of Highland Park, N. J., was not guilty of negligence in parking his automobile along the left side of McMullen Highway headed toward Cumberland while he and his brother, Ernest, went to the aid of a stranded motorist. It was the Allwine's parked car which the Moran machine struck to cause the tragic accident.

Five Lawyers Argue

Five different lawyers spent nearly two-and-one-half hours of closing argument yesterday afternoon in a final effort to convince the jury on the proper decision in the case.

These attorneys were Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., representing Mrs. Kalbaugh; William A. Gunter, representing the Moran estate; W. Earle Cobey, representing the Allwines; William C. Walsh, for the Gilmore and Moran estates, and Horace P. Whitworth, Sr., in a final argument for Mrs. Kalbaugh.

Defense attorneys, especially Gunter and Walsh, hammered away at the argument that Kalbaugh was out on a "jamboree" with five other Tri-Towns men. They stressed that testimony of Thompson, the lone survivor, and other witnesses who saw the men at the Elda Inn, showed that the drinking party lasted from about 9 p. m. Saturday, August 30, until about 4 a. m. August 31.

After drinking at both the Legion Home and Potomac Club in Westernport, the young men had something to eat at the Tea Room there and then about 2 a. m. Sunday headed on a 25-mile trip to the Elda on Braddock Road, Walsh emphasized. Witnesses said they consumed two fifths of whisky at the Elda.

Last evidence in the case was heard yesterday morning when Mrs. Joretta Proudfoot Allwine and Ernest Allwine, her brother-in-law, took the stand. Mrs. Allwine, then Miss Proudfoot, was severely cut about the face in the crash. She was sitting in the car while the Allwines helped an Ohio man get his car started. Mrs. Allwine was awarded an $11,000 verdict against the Gilmore and Moran estates last week in the same court.

Other members of the jury besides Gurley were Harry G. Shupe, John H. Davies, John S. Stoner, Patricia Amoruse, Anne B. Everline, Harmon Arnold, Clifton Fuller, C. M. Becker, Elizabeth Farrell, Robert C. Morris and Roy Kimes.

Weather

Yesterday was one of those days when one is glad to be alive, lots of sun, cool breezes, low humidity and just-right temperatures. Weather was ideal for Cumberland Day at the races at Fairgo, and even the unfortunates who had to stay in the offices were cheered by steady cool breezes. High reading yesterday was 83 degrees according to Constitution Park weather station; low was 51 and at 9 p.m. mercury stood at 72 degrees. Humidity at 6 p.m. was a dry 45 per cent. The Weather Bureau promises about the same conditions today . . . fair weather with highest in the low 80's.

Local Girl Wins Top Post At Girls State

Peggy Spioch To Be Attorney General

Peggy Lou Spioch, 17-year-old daughter of State Police Trooper First Class and Mrs. A. M. Spioch, 507 Patterson Avenue, was elected attorney general of Girls State in Annapolis yesterday.

Peggy, a junior at Ursuline Academy, became the first local girl to win a state office at Girls State.

PEGGY SPIOCH

She attended SS. Peter and Paul Parochial School before entering Ursuline, where she is active in the Glee Club and on the basketball team.

During summers, she serves as a unit councilor at Girl Scout camp.

The local girl is planning either a nursing or teaching career following graduation from the local academy.

Her father is a member of the Maryland State Police, stationed at the LaVale barracks. Her mother, Mrs. Margaret Spioch, is president of the local Girl Scout Council.

Elect State Officials

Some 100 Maryland high school girls voted on top state officials and promptly handed the new governor several controversial pieces of legislation to sign.

The girls, representatives at the annual Girls' State in the Statehouse, elected Judy Fairall, a Laurel high school junior, as governor over Jayne Eyerman of Silver Spring.

Alice Love of Silver Spring won the comptroller's post from Virginia Peters of Sudlersville and Peggy Spioch of Cumberland was elected attorney general, beating out Martha Campbell of Oxon Hill.

Ask Pay Increases

Shortly after the election, the "senators" and "delegates" went into a session which produced heated discussion on several statewide matters.

One of the first bills passed by the youthful legislature called for raising school teachers' salaries and the pay of state employes.

After more debate the legislators passed a bill giving each delegate two scholarships to the University of Maryland, a measure patterned after one vetoed by Gov. McKeldin earlier this year after passage by the grown-up General Assembly.

Another bill approved on the heels of a state controversy called for skimmed milk to be plainly marked and to be sold only as labeled.

To End Saturday

The only bill provoking no near hair pulling was one calling for establishment of more playgrounds throughout Maryland.

Tomorrow the girls will delve into city politics after creating governmental bodies via Anne Arundel County voting machines. Then, on Friday, they will consider county matters.

The session ends Saturday after a cleanup of unfinished business.

State Sen. Preston (D-Balto 5th) and Del. Bloom (D-Washington) were on hand to assist the girls in the two houses of the mock legislature today.

Representatives of city and county governments will help them today and Friday.

Senate Group Allots $950,000 For Flood Work

$50,000 Is Cut From House Figure

An economy minded Senate appropriations committee yesterday recommended that $950,000 be alloted to the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Control project during the fiscal year which begins July 1.

The allotment represents a $50,000 cut from the $1,000,000 voted by the House for the project late in May.

B. G. ATWOOD

B. G. Atwood has been appointed Area Development Representative for the Potomac Edison System. As the title indicates, he will interest himself in those things concerned with the economic and industrial growth of this area.

In cooperation with others, especially local and state Chambers of Commerce, attention will be centered on helping bring in new industries and in assisting in the development of local industry. Vacant industrial buildings often attract industry. They can be listed with the nearest district manager of the Potomac Edison System, for Atwood's attention. Prospects developed will be referred to the owner for negotiation.

Atwood's appointment further enlarges these activities of the Potomac Edison System, which have been carried on for many years. In his work Atwood will report to PE's General Commercial Manager S. S. Bradford.

Atwood has had working experience with several phases of the Company's operation, well fitting him for his new office. He started with PE in 1937 in the Hagerstown District as a civil engineer. In later years he held the posts of transmission engineer for PE and transportation engineer for the Blue Ridge Bus Lines. In '51 he took over the duties of general passenger agent for Blue Ridge—a post somewhat similar to his new position as it called for the development of transportation business within company-served territory.

A graduate of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Atwood has been active in civic and community affairs, serving on various church boards and Community Chest posts.

State Firemen Open Convention At Ocean City

Cumberland Bids For 1954 Session

OCEAN CITY, Md., June 24 (AP)—The vanguard of an expected 2,000 of Maryland's volunteer firemen came early to Ocean City today for the opening formalities of the 61st annual convention of their state association.

Their business sessions, speeches on the technicalities of fighting fires, parties, and political pep talking will continue through Thursday and come to a climax with the annual parade late Friday afternoon.

William A. Chenoweth of Pikesville so far stands unopposed for the presidency in the annual election, the only contest in sight being between James N. Jarman of Ocean City and John W. Smith of Annapolis for first vice-president.

One of the questions to be settled Thursday is whether the 1954 convention will be held in Ocean City or Cumberland.

The rush to register for the annual session was so great today that about 900 firemen from 152 companies had signed in by noon, two hours before the opening convention session.

2,000 To Register

Convention officials expected to have the names of another 1,100 delegates and 50 more companies before the day was over.

The presence of two potential candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor in next year's elections lent a political flavor to the gathering.

On the list of speakers were State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes and Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the University of Maryland.

Speakers on technical subjects included Don Dunnington, field director of the Maryland Ambulance and Rescue Association; Battalion Chief A. M. Grunwell of the Washington, D. C., Fire Department; Chief Frank R. Pollack of the Baltimore Fire Department's salvage squad, and W. Thomas Owens, senior instructor of fire service extension at the University of Maryland.

Tonight's program included a fireworks display on the beach and the annual Firemen's Ball.

Area Men Candidates

Chenoweth's candidacy for president will be placed before the convention Thursday when the nominating committee makes its report.

Others named who so far have no opposition include T. C. Gardner of Riverdale Heights for second vice-president; Floyd B. Heimer of Branchville for secretary; William A. Wilson of Midland and John S. Pritchard of Grantsville for trustees; and the Rev. James W. Minter of Hereford for Chaplain.

The Ocean City school yard overflowed with all kinds of fire fighting and communications equipment for the volunteers to inspect.

The Ladies Auxiliary held separate meetings after the joint session which opened the convention.

GRADUATES—Albert S. Pisaneschi, 27, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger R. Pisaneschi, 927 Grand Avenue, recently received a bachelor's degree in architecture at Catholic University, Washington, and is employed by a Baltimore architectural firm. Jury Rules Out Mrs. Kalbaugh's Damage Plea

Decides Husband Was Negligent

Mrs. Genevieve Yvonne Kalbaugh, widowed mother of three small children, failed in her effort to win sizable money damages for the traffic death of her husband, Charles Lee Kalbaugh, when an Allegany County Circuit Court jury ruled that Kalbaugh was guilty of contributory negligence in riding in a car knowing that the driver was under the influence of alcohol.

Kalbaugh was one of five young Tri-Towns men who were killed in a crash along McMullen Highway near Pinto last August 31. Only one man, James F. Thompson, among six riding in the car survived. Among the other dead were Timothy M. Gilmore, the driver, and Richard Moran, the owner.

Deliberates 90 Minutes

The jury, on which Oscar Gurley served as foreman, returned its verdict shortly before 6 p. m. yesterday after deliberating nearly 90 minutes.

Four issues were presented the jury of nine men and three women for decision. Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris, who presided at the two-day trial, instructed the jury that a finding of contributory negligence on the part of Kalbaugh in riding in the car would bar his widow's right to damages even if the defendants also were guilty of negligence.

In the first issue, the jury decided that Gilmore, a former state trooper, was guilty of negligence in driving Moran's car along McMullen Highway on the Sunday morning just before last Labor Day.

Gilmore was acting as the agent of Moran in driving the car, the jury ruled in the second issue. The jury's only negative response to an issue came on the third one when the decision was that Lewis Howard Allwine of Highland Park, N. J., was not guilty of negligence in parking his automobile along the left side of McMullen Highway headed toward Cumberland while he and his brother, Ernest, went to the aid of a stranded motorist. It was the Allwine's parked car which the Moran machine struck to cause the tragic accident.

Five Lawyers Argue

Five different lawyers spent nearly two-and-one-half hours of closing argument yesterday afternoon in a final effort to convince the jury on the proper decision in the case.

These attorneys were Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., representing Mrs. Kalbaugh; William A. Gunter, representing the Moran estate; W. Earle Cobey, representing the Allwines; William C. Walsh, for the Gilmore and Moran estates, and Horace P. Whitworth, Sr., in a final argument for Mrs. Kalbaugh.

Defense attorneys, especially Gunter and Walsh, hammered away at the argument that Kalbaugh was out on a "jamboree" with five other Tri-Towns men. They stressed that testimony of Thompson, the lone survivor, and other witnesses who saw the men at the Elda Inn, showed that the drinking party lasted from about 9 p. m. Saturday, August 30, until about 4 a. m. August 31.

After drinking at both the Legion Home and Potomac Club in Westernport, the young men had something to eat at the Tea Room there and then about 2 a. m. Sunday headed on a 25-mile trip to the Elda on Braddock Road. Walsh emphasized. Witnesses said they consumed two fifths of whisky at the Elda.

Last evidence in the case was heard yesterday morning when Mrs. Joretta Proudfoot Allwine and Ernest Allwine, her brother-in-law, took the stand. Mrs. Allwine, then Miss Proudfoot, was severely cut about the face in the crash. She was sitting in the car while the Allwines helped an Ohio man get his car started. Mrs. Allwine was awarded an $11,000 verdict against the Gilmore and Moran estates last week in the same court.

Other members of the jury besides Gurley were Harry G. Shupe, John H. Davies, John S. Stoner, Patricia Amoruse, Anne B. Everline, Harmon Arnold, Clifton Fuller, C. M. Becker, Elizabeth Farrell, Robert C. Morris and Roy Kimes.

Weather

Yesterday was one of those days when one is glad to be alive, lots of sun, cool breezes, low humidity and just-right temperatures. Weather was ideal for Cumberland Day at the races at Fairgo, and even the unfortunates who had to stay in the offices were cheered by steady cool breezes. High reading yesterday was 83 degrees according to Constitution Park weather station; low was 51 and at 9 p.m. mercury stood at 72 degrees. Humidity at 6 p.m. was a dry 45 per cent. The Weather Bureau promises about the same conditions today . . . fair weather with highest in the low 80's.
